Last on the agenda were presentations from Division Directors in attendance on their activities over the past three months. Time was also dedicated for audience members to address the council directly with their ideas and concerns for the band.

DHS Commissioner Meeting
Cass Lake — The Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe and Minnesota Department of Human Services (DHS) signed a tribal consultation agreement, Tuesday, June 25.

The tribal consultation policy came as a result of The Walz/Flannagan administration’s Executive Order 19-25 which seeks to strengthen the relationships between Minnesota’s tribes and state officials through several different methods. The DHS consultation agreement has added three new points of consultation for the tribe with the state department. Tribal nation specific consultation, advisory council consultation, and an annual consultation summit. Tribal officials now have the opportunity to comment directly on legislation and issues.

U.S. Environmental Protection Agency and Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe seek Residents comments regarding proposed action plans on Superfund site.

By Kayla Duoos

Cass Lake – The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) will be returning to the reservation July 30th for a final cleanup proposal meeting on the St. Regis Paper Co. Superfund Site section Operable Unit 7 (OU7).

The meeting will be held at Cass Lake-Bena Elementary School at 6 p.m. Tuesday's meeting will cover cleanup proposals followed by a 2-hour block for verbal comments from residents on what the preferred action plan is for section OU7.

Section OU7 currently sits within reservation boundary lines, by the railroad tracks on highway 371, This area contains residential homes.

The contaminated soil from the superfund site within these areas are well above the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe’s Hazardous Substance Control Act of 2001 (HSCA), which sets standards for acceptable chemical levels based on the Band’s analysis of what will best protect our Tribal Treaty Rights and trust lands for our current and future generations.

The plan decided upon from this meeting will be the final remedial action proposed for section OU7. The EPA plans to address the remainder of the St. Regis site in separate actions.

DRM Environmental Deputy Director, Brandy Toft encourages residents to make an appearance at this meeting as this decision will affect band members for years to come, and will be a time for the community to learn about the site.

The public meeting is for the community, it’s going to be a time for everyone to come and learn about the site and learn the facts, and to be able to ask questions and get direct feedback, and also learn how to take that information they learned from there, take it home, and provide formal commenting. These people do not live here, you do, they need to hear from you. When people speak, they are heard. We need people to speak up,” said Toft.

DRM Environmental Director, Ben Benoit echoed Toft’s sentiment and says this time is really for residents to show how much they care about their home and what’s done with the land it’s settled on.

“People should go to this meeting because this is our homeland and people need to tell the EPA that we do care about it, and you care what happens to it.”

-Ben Benoit, DRM Environmental Director

They need to hear from our people."

The online and mail in comment period runs from June 17 through August 15, 2019. Please send your comments to EPA Community Involvement Coordinator Heriberto León before midnight, August 15, 2019 at leon.heriberto@epa.gov, or Heriberto Leon, EPA Region 5 (mail code SE-6J), 77 W. Jackson Blvd., Chicago, IL 60604.

You can read the plans being considered as well as a full background on the superfund site on the DRM’s website.
State and Tribal officials both shared their hopes for the agreement at the signing event, and tribal division directors all voiced issues they’d like to see addressed in the near future. Tribal Chairman Faron Jackson who was present at the signing also spoke out saying the move DHS made to present this agreement and come to the reservation to sign it together shows a strong commitment from the state department.

“Coming here today, it shows good intentions. We always want to build on our relationships with state because we do have a lot of critical needs that need immediate attention. This agreement is a good starting point, it’s going to be a joint team effort to ensure that good things happen,” said Jackson.

Former DHS Commissioner Tony Lourey, said at the core the consultation agreement is really about being intentional and pro-active in developing government to government working relationships and making them work to make a change.

“These are words on a page, it’s on us to bring them to life and to make them meaningful and have them help us together on our partnership, and improve the lives and well-being of the communities, families and band members that you represent. We still have so much work to do but with strong partnerships and really recognizing the important role each of us play, I’m hopeful that we’re going to be able to make some real difference,” said Lourey.

Lourey resigned July 15 as DHS Commissioner, and Governor Walz has announced Pam Wheelock as acting Commissioner.

The DHS will continue to honor the agreement signed by Lourey, and said this will be the first of many visits to the reservation in the future as they build upon the consultation agreement.

Cass Lake – Congressman Pete Stauber’s field representative, Louis Crombie made a trip to the Leech Lake Reservation Wednesday June 19th.

Crombie’s visit was one of many he’s made since time in office to visit local constituents to hear their concerns and needs. Priority issues on the council’s agenda included the DRM Secretarial Land Transfers, The Leech Lake Police Pension/IRS issue, and the Superfund site in Cass Lake.

The ceremony stressed the health impacts that tobacco had on Tribal communities, and tribal women in particular.

“We know that here in Western Minnesota the rate of tobacco related illnesses and deaths in Native American Women is the highest, so setting the precedent for tribal communities and organizations to follow the same policy to promote tobacco free work and learning environments our campus here is important,” said Howard.

Leech Lake Tribal College is proud to support their community through the efforts of this initiative. It is their hope that the positive inroads made by LLTC and other like-minded tribal colleges and universities will pave the way for many more schools to join the movement, leading to healthier students and Native communities.

For more information the colleges no-smoking policy, please check the tribal college website, Wellness page.

Cass Lake – The Arizonans Concerned About Smoking group presented the Leech Lake Tribal College a plaque Monday June 24th in recognition of the tribal colleges achievement of becoming a nicotine free campus.

Outside of traditional use asema, the campus does not allow commercial smoking on site. The policy which was implemented in 2014 by the campus Wellness Center has been widely accepted by staff and students. Dean of Student Services, Michelle Saboo said the student and faculty support of the policy is really what gave the initiative the push it needed to be successful.

“I think it’s huge to see how many students respect our policy, and that even elders on our campus will go off site to smoke. It really leads our community in that way to see elders respect the efforts we’re trying to do here and in the community as a whole,” said Saboo.

During the implementation period, the college hosted educational listening sessions, supported opportunities for traditional ceremonial tobacco use, and offered tobacco cessation support to those who wanted to quit smoking. Surveys that were conducted before and after the policy went into effect showed that the percentage of students who used commercial tobacco dropped from 49% to 41% in just one year.

Commander in the U.S. Public Health Service, and Bemidji/Cass Lake IHS employee Michael Verdugo who presented the plaque on behalf of the Arizonan organization, congratulated the school on their promotion of healthy lifestyles.

“This was a recognition that the tribal college received due to tireless work to eliminate the use of commercial tobacco on campus. They’re one of select few Tribal Colleges that have made the effort to raise the awareness to students about the consequences of commercial tobacco use,” said Verdugo during the brief ceremony.

Dean of Academics, Vikki Howard who was present during the ceremony stressed the health impact.
Tribal Council Quarterly Reports

Secretary / Treasurer Arthur “Archie” LaRose

Tribal Council authorized funds from the General Fund account of $2.7 million dollars for the purchase and with a set closing date of July 31, 2019.

- 60 Bed Homeless shelter on Tract 33 receiving funds from the billing revenue at a projected cost of $2.3 million dollars with a projected completion date of September 30, 2019.
- The Assisted Living project that is currently in development and will be opening soon which is administered by the Health Division.
- Renovation of the Headstart/Health building in Bemidji is in progress. This building was purchased last fiscal year, will serve 20 preschoolers.
- Other capital project planning discussions are S. Lake Community Center, Wellness Center, Treatment Center, and a Wild Rice Processing Center.

The Band’s short term liabilities include amounts owed to local vendors, contractors while the long term debt are for loans for the Tract 33 Water Project and the Government Administration Building. The long term debt has steadily decreased as there has been no other loans added since the creation of the Government Administration building.

This administration is expanding the Band’s Public Transportation system through the use of grant revenue from the Federal Highway Administration, MN DOT, and other federal sources. The plan is to connect all areas of the reservation with affordable transportation for all residents with access to work, doctor appointments, and other daily necessary trips.

The Band has been working with local broadband carriers such as Paul Bunyan Communications and Century link to ensure internet availability to residents in all areas of the reservation residents and to the programs for faster connectivity needed for quality health, education and community program services.

A major revenue source impacted by stricter regulation is the Opiate billing revenue. A large portion of the Opiate program revenue is being reduced by the State of Minnesota and will affect band programs that rely on this revenue source and may have to seek other options or be discontinued if there is no other funding source. Programs currently funded by this revenue source include:

1. The Opiate Treatment Program
2. Human Services Administration
3. Elders Program
4. The Lyman Losh Homeless Shelter
5. Cass Lake Homeless Shelter - Construction and operation
6. Assisted Living
7. Sports and Recreation

(These programs and services may need to seek alternative revenue sources as this revenue source has been dramatically reduced due to a change in the billing process.)

The Band’s Tax Agreement with the State has been amended to include reimbursement for the State tax on internet sales. The Band received increased revenue the past two quarters with increases projected in all future receipts. Leech Lake is the only tribe in Minnesota that has negotiated this tax increase into its tax agreement for an increase in sales tax revenue of approximately $190 thousand per year. Also, the last payment for the withheld cigarette taxes was received in the amount of $2 million.

The Band’s General Fund and Special Revenue Fund have positive fund Balances. The Budget Ordinance requires an emergency fund for operations. During the last Federal government shutdown, these reserves were utilized to provide cash flow for all programs that the government had shut down. This emergency fund is especially critical for these types of emergencies to keep payroll and other operating costs funded. The LLBO had minimal interruptions of services and programs during this time due to having these emergency funds on hand. All cash flow utilized during this time was replenished with the grant revenue that was reinstated after the shutdown.

Cash Management reported interest revenue earned on reserves deposited as Certificates of Deposit at local banks of $562 thousand dollars for this fiscal year, an increase of $450 thousand dollars over last fiscal year.

The new fiscal year started July 1, 2019, and many elders and veterans requested the emergency funds available through the Tribal Assistance Program. We have over two thousand members age 55 and over. The Band has also budgeted for the annual tax rebate to be distributed in December to all members, including those under 18 years of age, which will be deposited into the Minor’s Trust fund. The Band continues to pay out to the members as they turn 18 years of age.

There were three budget amendments made throughout the past year by the budget committee presented to the Tribal Council for final approval in compliance with the Band’s budget ordinance. Each amendment contains specific program budgets which are monitored daily for the Division Directors, Deputy Director, Executive Director, and the Tribal Council.

The Band’s administration has approved a continuing spending resolution due to the FY 2020 Comprehensive Budget not being approved as of July 1st, 2019. The resolution allowed for temporary spending based on the previous year’s budgets. The following is the proposed budget by division for FY 2020.

Welcome Babies Ceremony 2019

By Kayla Duoss

Cass Lake – The second annual Leech Lake Welcome Babies Ceremony took place Tuesday, June 25.

The ceremony which was held on the Leech Lake Veterans Powwow Grounds, was hosted by the bands Family Spirit Program. The ceremony is an effort by the program to return to the traditional Ceremonies that were once done for newborns in the tribe.

Tribal Chairman, Faron Jackson who was in attendance commended the Family Spirit program for planting the seeds in the previous year for the ceremony and expressed his hope to expand the event in the coming years. Jackson also touched on the importance of honoring the incoming generations.

“We need to stand up for our moms, for our grandmothers, for nimaamas, nokomis, for our great grandmother as they come together for a gift of a baby, abinoojinyens. We’re all in this together, our family circle starts with the birth of these young children and that’s what we’re here to recognize, the special gift of a life,” said Jackson.

13 booths set up were set up at the event featuring the bands various family programs who provided information on school options, safe sex practices, nursing, and car seats. Attendees also received a blanket, baby onesies and gift basket filled with childcare items from the Family Spirit program.

Patti Hurd, who is a Paraprofessional Health Educator for the Family Spirit Program said event is about making sure parents are recognized and helping band members become aware of the services the Family Spirit program can provide them.

“We hold this welcome babies ceremony every year in June and we’re thanking the mothers and fathers for bringing us into the world and then giving back to them,” said Hurd.

The Family Spirit program works with children ages 1-3, and addresses maternal psychosocial risks, social/emotional development for children, pre-natal care, breast feeding, and sober living. Participants in the program are allotted home visits on a regular basis from Para-Professionals from early pregnancy until your child’s third birthday.

Band members interested in the program are encouraged to call Family Spirit at (218) 335-7235 or drop in at the programs office.

Crombie received a history lesson on the tribes past at the start of the meeting, as well as a tour of the Justice Center and the new Cedar Lakes casino, which is expected to open later this summer. Crombie while addressing meeting members stressed he understood the importance of building relationships in communities as a means to better serve those who live there.

“Our goal is to be as present in the community as possible, as Pete always says ‘if you feel like you’re communicating enough, communicate more,’ said Crombie.

Leech Lake Government Relations Attorney Lenny Fineday who also attended the meeting said this was a great first step in building connections for the tribe.

“The larger purpose behind the meeting today is to really build up from the ground up relationship, and make sure it’s as strong as can be, So they can hear our issues and they can think of us when certain issues or opportunities are brought up,” said Fineday.

Congressman Pete Stauber currently serves Minnesota’s 8th District which covers the Northeastern part of Minnesota. Including the counties of Cass, Parts of Beltrami County Crow Hubbard, and more.

This question was routinely asked at the bands 3 day summer celebration “Leech Lake Days.” Answers varied from being a part of a community, to loving being in an area surrounded by so many abundant natural resources. The 2019 celebration is the 2nd annual for the tribe, and is even bigger than its predecessor.

This year’s event housed 12 booths from the band’s various programs, a food tent, mobile kitchen, and children’s bouncy houses. The celebration also had over 15 activities running throughout the first 2 days. The Leech Lake Days activities ranged from games, contests, crafting, all the way to cook-offs, car pile-ins and a best of “rez cars” display.

Leech Lake Deputy Director, Gordon Fineday who sat on the planning committee said in his opinion, the event at its core is about celebrating sovereignty and being Anishinaabe.

“I think to everybody who’s been on our planning committee has their own interpretation of what this event is, but for me specifically I think growing up here at home, we don’t really have a chance to celebrate who we are, we always celebrate different things, different holidays. We never had a day designated for us and for who we are and to show that we’re still here. That’s what resonates with me. I wanted this event so my kids and my grandkids will have something that they can say hey im from here, this is home, we’re still here,” said Fineday.

The celebration preceded the band’s weekend pow-wow which had been moved up from its traditional 4th of July date to coincide with Leech Lake Days. A move that was well thought out by both the powwow and Leech Lake days planning committees. The move is the bands first step in turning away from colonized holidays. Secretary Treasurer, Arthur LaRose said is he’s happy to have seen the change happen as it represents bigger things.

“It’s about our history, it’s about who we are as a people, and it’s a really good anishinaabe practice. It’s just a wonderful beautiful day for all of us anishinaabe people to get together have fun, socialize, laugh, do some physical activities and do good for ourselves,” said LaRose.

Tribal Chairman Faron Jackson who spoke on the mainstage during the event shared his belief that positive events like this is what furthers not only individuals but the community as a whole.

“As we build these positive and engaging activities for our families to be involved with, use this time to engage in dialogue. Leech Lake days is all about strengthening our communication line so we always know what’s going on. We can do a lot with positive energy and positive thinking,” said Jackson.

Band Member Vanessa Fairbanks who attended the event attested to Jackson’s statement that the event was a positive one for community members. “My family came out and we did the walk run. It’s just a great event to get out and bring my girls out,” said Fairbanks.

The band already has plans in mind for expansion of next years celebration.
The Leech Lake Days community cleanup event focused on the idea that “being proud of your community also means taking care of your community.”

Over 200 community volunteers who stood by this motto hit the streets Thursday June 27th for the first event of the Leech Lake Days. Cleanup volunteers went through Tract 33, Tract 33 1/2, Tract 34, Fox Creek, IHS to RTC, and the Mission area in district 3.

Leech Lake Project Accountant, Sharon Kolta who was apart of the cleanup crew for the IHS area said taking care of her community has been a priority for her for years, and that she’s had visiting guests share how beautiful they thought the reservation was so dedicating time to upkeep that beauty has been a wonderful opportunity.

“I’m just really happy to be able to be out here. I think that it’s a good idea to have Leech Lake Days like this because I think it’s very important that we take the time and opportunity to come out and clean because we need to keep our earth clean, keep our land clean, said Kolta.

Leech Lakes Department of Resource Management (DRM) Environmental Deputy Director, Brandy Toft said the cleanup is one of the many ways community members show their pride in being a band member.

“One of those is the beautify and take care of Mother Earth and her resources,” stated Toft “The cleanup day provides a time for Leech Lake staff and the Leech Lake Community to join together to be proud of our community.”

Volunteers all received bag lunches, and a special Leech Lake Days Community cleanup shirt.

The Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe sits in what many claim to be a Mahnomen stronghold.

This reputation is exactly what inspired the Leech Lake Days Legal Department to host the Wild Rice Cook-off. Court Clerk Amanda Richardson said the staff brainstormed for a long time on what the theme of the cook-off should be. After the staff contemplated an ingredient that was accessible to community members, the idea fell into place.

“Well at the first planning meeting, it was asked that each division or department come up with an event to be held at Leech Lake Days. We decided to have some type of food contest. We figured everyone has wild rice because the band gives us a couple of pounds every year, so we thought why not a wild rice dish contest,” said Richardson.

The four judges from the Legal Department brainstormed food contest categories; creativity, taste, texture, and presentation. However, the four judges were unable to come to a decision on a winner. The judges decided that the chefs all did a great job and that the judges would have to pick a winner.

“Band Member Katie Kertig’s prize winning dish, which was similar to a biscuits and gravy has been in the making for quite some time.

“I have been preparing this wild rice dish for years except today was kind of an impromptu modification for it — at least I thought it went really well. I added them for presentation, and I tried to go over the top, so I included it and it worked out really well,” said Kertig.

Kertig who has been cooking since the age of 10, said the win had meant a lot to her not only as an Indigenous chef, but as someone who is currently pursuing a dream of opening a restaurant. Kertig shared more of her meals at Leech Lake Days through her first ever food stand.

When I found out I won, I felt like crying because cooking is so important to me. Preparing a meal is not just cooking its nurturing people, it’s also the spirit you put into your cooking. I learned that at a young age from my grandma, so not

Kertig, who has been cooking since the age of 10, said the win had meant a lot to her not only as an Indigenous chef, but as someone who is currently pursuing a dream of opening a restaurant. Kertig has business plans in the works, and shared more of her meals at Leech Lake Days through her first-ever food stand.

"I'm always glad to help out in events. I'm always putting on fry bread fundraisers for our programs clients activities. I enjoy the rewards of helping, and the compliments," said Harrison.

First, second, and third place entries in the contest walked away with entertainment prizes.

1. "Iron Gookoosh" Katie Kertig
2. "Wild Rice Popping Renos" Alicia Bowstring
3. "Dam Good Hotdish" Gina Munnell
4. "It's not sticky rice—It's wild rice" Toni Pemberton

The competition was stiff at the Leech Lake Days Frybread Eating competition.

All 20 competitors all had different strategies of consuming the bread in hopes of walking away victorious. Methods ranged from pouring water on the bread, to avoiding meals day of, but a newcomer who had the will to push through ultimately walked away with the title.

Chris, who is a Leech Lake Band member and youth in the community began the competition with 24 ounces of frybread and ended with 5.5 ounces. Chris successfully pushed past his fellow competition which included last year's title holder.

Chris said the only advice he could give to others who also hope to victorious in coming years is to just "keep eating."

Jess Harrison, who runs 'Jess's fry bread' stand and works at the Leech Lake Mens halfway home supplied over 300 pieces for Friday's competition. Preparing that amount of bread took Harrison around 4 hours for her and help to complete. This is the 2nd year Harrison has been asked to help in the event and she said making the decision to say yes was an easy one for her.
The Leech Lake Days Community Art contest saw a second successful year.

The event saw 26 entries, and close to a hundred voting ballots were cast. The contest which was originally a new venture to Human Resources staff the previous year, has now become something the team looks forward to. Leech Lake Band member and Technology Development Planner Cari Tabor, believes holding events like the art contest are important to the community as a whole.

“I think this type of event is important because our band members are creating art everyday at home and sometimes we don’t get to see what other people are doing. It’s amazing when you get to discover other people’s work. It’s just incredible to see the talent on our reservation,” said Tabor.

Many of the H.R. staff at the event echoed Tabor’s remarks and as a majority of the group create traditional crafts in one way or another. Fellow Human Resources staff, Joy Lawerence said the event goes beyond the voting, and surface level appearances as it exposes many to new pieces of art to the community and youth.

“This event is about teaching our young people and showing them the crafts that our ancestors and great grandparents did,” said Lawerence.

Winners in the 3 adults and children categories walked away with monetary prizes.

Leech Lake Civics Training

_By Kayla Duoos_

Cass Lake – The Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe Civics training has added a new understanding of tribal sovereignty for employees.

The recently added training is the result of passed resolution by the Leech Lake Reservation Business Committee earlier this year. The Civics training covers history, political rights, operations, culture and citizens rights of the tribe in an interactive format. All new hires and incumbent Tribal Council members are required to complete the training.

LuAnn Robinson, a band member who completed the training, said the presentation is something that has been long needed on the reservation.

“We all need to understand the role we all play in ensuring our livelihood and that our communities and community members are thriving within the government. The more knowledge and understanding we have as band members will only make our future generations that much stronger and capable of accomplishing anything they set out to do. It’s up to each and every one of us to be accountable for living the best life we can live, and it’s up to us to gain the knowledge and pass it on,” said Robinson.

Civics training is held the 4th Thursday of every month, Interested employees can contact Human Resources for further information and registration.

Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe
Water Quality Standards Application
Public Comment Period: May 31 to July 15, 2019.

Application for Treatment in a Similar Manner as States (TAS) for Water Quality Standards
The Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe (LLBO) of Minnesota has applied to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) to develop and administer water quality standards. Approval of the application would allow Leech Lake to adopt, review, and revise water quality standards and to certify that discharges comply with those water quality standards for all surface waters within Leech Lake’s Reservation.

The Band intends to set standards for all surface waters within the Reservation that meet the EPA’s regulatory definition of the “Waters of the United States.” The current boundaries and legal description of the Reservation were established in a 1973 federal consent decree entered into by LLBO, the state of Minnesota, and the United States. A listing of surface waters located within the Reservation for which the Band intends to set water quality standards can be found in the application as attachment 15.

EPA is Requesting Comments
The EPA is currently reviewing Leech Lake’s application and is requesting comments on the Tribe’s application to regulate surface water quality in the waters described above. Comments will be accepted until July 15, 2019.
