The History of Native American Heritage Month

By Kayla Duos

Cass Lake — November marks not only election season and Thanksgiving, but also Native American Heritage Month. A celebration of all things Indigenous. Native American Heritage month has been a recurring monthly event in November since April 3, 1990 when former President HW Bush signed a resolution declaring November “Native American Heritage Month”.

In a move that upset many in Indian Country, President Trump declared November as a time to celebrate both Native American heritage and the country’s founders. Trump unveiled his new National American History and Founders Month proclamation to coincide with the National Native American Heritage Month declaration on October 31 of this year.

On November 5, 2019, Governor Walz and Lieutenant Governor Peggy Flanagan marked the start of the month with an official proclamation recognizing Tribal Communities. Flanagan, in a post shared on social media, said “We’re proud to proclaim November as Native American Heritage Month. This month, we honor the vibrant Native American cultures that are a part of our state and renew our commitment to government-to-government relations.”

Our Home: Native Minnesota Exhibit Experience

New exhibit highlights the resiliency and strength of Native nations, communities and individuals.

Submitted by Minnesota History Center

Minnesotans is a Dakota word that describes the reflection of the sky onto water, a well-known image in the Land of 10,000 Lakes. This is Dakota homeland and Dakota people, and Ojibwe people who also call Minnesota home, are thriving here today.

Native Americans—Dakota, Ojibwe, as well as people from other tribal nations—have been in this area for thousands of years and still live in Minnesota now. The new exhibit “Our Home: Native Minnesota,” opening Dec. 7, 2019, at the Minnesota History Center shares their stories, and their enduring presence and deep connection to the land.

“We constantly hear from visitors and teachers that Native stories are fundamental to understanding Minnesota history,” said Kent Whitworth, MNHS director and CEO. “And now we have a permanent gallery devoted to the stories of today’s Native communities. These are inspirational stories of survival, resistance and resilience that offer hope for the future. These stories show how Native people have retained cultural practices, teachings and values, and an essential connection to home.”

The exhibit uses historic and contemporary photographs, maps and artifacts to illustrate...
LLTC Renews Yearly Grant Awarded by USDA

By Kayla Duoos

Cass Lake – The Leech Lake Tribal College received an $80,000 dollar grant from the United States Department of Agriculture.

The grant comes from the department’s “Tribal College Initiative” program which has been around since 1994. The tribal college has been renewing their grant and part of the program since early in its inception. The program is national and has helped many tribal colleges across the US, including Red Lake, and White Earth.

The Tribal College has used the grant for various projects across the years including new furniture, equipment purchases, electronics and campus renovations.

Tribal College President Raymond Burns who was present at the grant signing said the grant helps the college meet its mission of providing a safe, and innovative learning environment.

“In order to provide the quality education that our students and the community expect, the Leech Lake Tribal College often has to reach out to find sources of funding that help support the College. The US Department of Agriculture has been an important partner in the success of Leech Lake Tribal College. With this grant, the College will continue to be able to offer those things which frequently are overlooked when talking about higher education (how to pay for desks, office equipment, etc.), but are as essential to its ability to offer outstanding educational opportunities for Leech Lake and the surrounding communities,” said Burns.

If you'd like to tour the college or have questions regarding the grant, you can visit them at 45 Little Wolf Rd NW, Cass Lake, MN from 8am-4:30pm.

Award Winning Minneapolis Author Pays Visit to Bug O Nay Ge Shig School

By Kayla Duoos

Bena – Seven months ago former Senator Al Franken asked his online followers to donate to a tribal schools library—that library being Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig’s.

Frankens online plea to his 900,000+ Facebook followers led to $83,000 dollars and over 5,000 books being donated to the school. The school used the donated funds to fully furnish the highschool library, provide new reading material for classrooms, and buy shelving units.

As the months have gone by since the initial outpouring of donations, a wide range of gifts and help still continues to come to the school. The latest “gift” being a guest lecture and reading from award winning author, and highschool english teacher Michael Bazzett.

Bazzett after seeing Franken’s post, donated two copies of his novel “Popol Vuh.” A mayan creation story meaning “the book of the woven mat.” The story originally sung and chanted by tribes had been previously been translated into prose—and now, for the first time, translated into verse by Bazzett.

Bazzett read to students ranging from 4th to 6th grade, including all of Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shigs Nigaane program. Bazzett taught students mayan phrases from his book and had an open discussion with staff/students on the language differences.

Library Media Specialist Laurie Villwock who accepted Bazzetts initial donation and offer to speak at the school said expanding students verizons wasn't something she could pass up.

Bazzet’s novel, “Popol Vuh” is available at the Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig school library and at online retailers.
Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe Working Towards MOU with Itasca County

By Kayla Duoos

Cass Lake – The Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe is continuing its quest to strengthen relationships with its neighbors by beginning talks with Itasca County on signing a Memorandum of Understanding.

The joint government meeting regarding future consultation took place Thursday, October 24 at Cedar Lakes Casino. The Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) discussed by the two groups would be a formal declaration of a partnership between the two governments, much like the award winning MOU that is currently in place with Cass county.

The Cass County MOU has been in place for six years and provides a framework for multi-level communication and cooperation between the county and the band for natural resource management, community events and economic development.

Both MOU’s were presented to Cass and Itasca County with the idea in mind of making joint issues simpler. Present at the meeting to discuss crossover issues were tribal officials from the health department, public safety and human services.

Cass County Administrator Josh Stevenson, who is one of the two main points of contact between the county and the tribe, also attended and gave support to the joint partnership citing the many years and benefits it’s provided both governments over the years. Stevenson attested as well to how it’s shaped Cass County’s hiring process.

“I will say the relationship between Cass County and the tribe is built on trust and respect. Our main goal has been to come together. We represent the same people and we have to talk to each other about that It’s a top down process.”

“This is about trust building, it’s not superficial. This is about relationship building and that’s what it’s going to take to get us to a good place with a formal document in place. This could have been done a long time ago but when it’s meant to be—it’s meant to be,” said Staples-Fairbanks.

The joint MOU is expected to be signed before the end of the year.

Error Disovered in Blood Quantum Rolls Corrected for a Thousand Plus Tribal Members

By Kayla Duoos

Hinckley – Amid a tension filled meeting October 30, the Minnesota Chippewa Tribes first action came the Minnesota Chippewa Tribes first action regarding blood quantum since the government’s inception.

A series of blood quantum rolls were discovered containing 1,089 names of tribal members who were incorrectly documented as non-full blood.

All tribal members on the list have had their blood quantum rightfully restored and descendants of those on the list are encouraged to contact the BIA.

“As humans, we all make mistakes and we have to own up to those mistakes. We always try to really think about these issues we deal with from the big picture, when we make these corrections, we don’t want to minimize the mistakes we make along the way,” said Jackson.

The constitutional reform committee is planning to further address blood quantum issues amongst the Minnesota Chippewa Tribes during the reform process.

If you’d like to share your voice, or become a constitutional reform delegate you can check the Leech Lake News event calendar for official meeting times and locations. These meetings are open to the general public.

LLBO Human Services Holds Open House and Dedication Ceremony for New A&D Youth Building

By Kayla Duoos

Cass Lake – The Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe’s Human Services Division held an open house Wednesday October 16, for the new home of the adolescent outpatient program.

The new building located alongside Highway 2, was home to a church before being purchased by the Band. The adolescent outpatient program has been in desperate need of a new space as their numbers of patients have increased over the years with the program seeing referrals from 3 other cities in the county.

The adolescent outpatient program provides services and education to the youth, as well as families, on alcohol and drug dependency. This program is designed to provide a more structured treatment than the relapse prevention program. The program provides education on alcohol abuse, drug abuse, co-occurring disorders, cross addiction and stress reduction.

The adolescent outpatient program also includes a focus on traditional healing and cultural events. Males and females ages 12-18, who reside on the Leech Lake Reservation are eligible for enrollment.

The new building is dedicated to Frances Sherer, one of the founders of the outpatient program. Sherer’s son Roy Sherer and sister, Henrietta Sherer were in attendance at the dedication. Both of Sherers family members and the elders who provided the buildings new name “Mash Kawi Gabaw Wiigamig (Standing Strong House)” were given gifts at the event.

Roy Sherer, who spoke following the buildings dedication thanked the staff for the acknowledgement of his mother and said one point of philosophy he wanted to share with staff going forward is that “wisdom is only wisdom if it’s shared.”

If you’re interested in more information on the youth outpatient program, please call (218) 335-8324.

The exhibit is told in first person to demonstrate to visitors that Native people are connected to their past and are still here in Minnesota today. Much of the exhibit text is presented in Dakota, Ojibwe and English. “Our Home: Native Minnesota” is a long-term exhibit that will incorporate new content every few years.

“Our Home: Native Minnesota” opens with a free family day, Dec. 7, 10 a.m.-5 p.m. Visitors can enjoy acoustic music with Mitch Walking Elk, hoop dance performances by the Sampson Brothers, demonstrations of birch-bark biting artwork with Denise Lajimodiere and traditional games like kansu kutepi (dice game), tasiha (ring and pin) and cankawacipi (spinning tops) with Jeremy Red Eagle.

Boozhoo! My name is Colin Eagle, and I am the Band’s Herbarium Assistant. A herbarium assistant helps the botanist with plant collecting, mounting, and the digitizing of specimens. A herbarium is a collection of plant species mounted on paper and archived in a climate and pest controlled cabinet that helps to protect them from decay.

At the moment we have two-thousand species located at the DRM compound on the Leech Lake Reservation. We are currently working on archiving the herbarium on a server, accessible on the internet. This work will be useful during research, and the preservation of native species from, and around the reservation.

Retaining Biological and Cultural Legacies
Submitted by LLBO DRM

This collection was initiated by Carol Mortensen, and with the help of DRM staff (Steve Mortenson, Jon Finn, Susan Kedzie) got the bulk of the work done. To honor her work collecting, identifying, and labeling specimens the collection has been named the “Carol Mortensen Herbarium.” In an effort to expand the uses of the herbarium, we are going to be doing some community outreach, and some workshops about the herbarium.

Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe Broad Band Build-out Update
Submitted by John Herrera
LLBO Legal Department

Since last fall a major effort began to reach Band households with wired internet service. Two competing providers now cover much of the reservation with high speed services at various levels of speed. The two providers are Paul Bunyan Communications headquartered in Bemidji and the national provider in CenturyLink.

Paul Bunyan was the first to offer services within the reservation to areas that previously had been underserved. Paul Bunyan Communications was in a position to deliver almost instantaneous services to various communities within the reservation simply by patching their main lines into nearby households. The efforts of CenturyLink have been more intense involving a substantial construction build out of main lines and lines to households. In fact, CenturyLink rented an office and equipment yard for their operations from the Band which will continue at least through the end of the year.

Having two or more providers will greatly assist in delivering a choice and variety of options in terms of cost, equipment and services to Band member households. Having good communication is key and as this writer will attest to first hand living in Oak Point, it is necessary to an enhanced lifestyle and ability to conduct business anywhere when needed. Information on the Paul Bunyan delivery areas is included at www.paulbunyan.net. The build out for Paul Bunyan can be seen in the map above.

Leech Lake Health Division Hosts 5th Annual Healing Walk

By Kayla Duos

Cass Lake – The 5th Annual Healing Walk took place October 17, at the Leech Lake Boys and Girls Club.

The healing walk put on by the “Eliminating Health Disparities” program within the Leech Lake Health Division featured a fry bread taco dinner, informational health booths, giveaways and a live performance by local band “Corey Medina and Brothers.”

The performance was a tribute to this year’s theme “music is healing.” Corey Medina who spoke after the walk congratulated participants on their completion of the route and spoke to his own beliefs on the power of music.

Each walk since the event’s inaugural year has had a different theme accompanying guest speakers and performers. Past themes include: “To Heal our Community, Together We Walk,” “Laughter is Healing” and “Culture is Healing.”

Behavioral Health case manager and event organizer, Karen Anoka said the event has a personal meaning to her and many others in the community and was created with helping others in mind.

“Four years ago, a small group met during a talking circle and issues were discussed regarding violence and grief. At that time, I was angered at the acts of violence that were being done within our community to homeless elders and members of the community. My father was one of them. We discussed how we could come together as a community to heal. A healing walk was discussed and planned. The purpose of this healing is for the whole community to come together to heal from all types of issues surrounding violence, loss of loved ones, homelessness, drugs, etcetera,” said Anoka.

The healing walk was open for participants of all ages, and saw a wide variety of attendees.

The event is expected to return again next October.

One of the earliest documented advocates of heritage month before it went to the government was a Seneca man named Dr. Arthur C. Parker who was the director of the Museum of Arts and Science in Rochester, N.Y at the time. According to the Bureau of Indian Affairs historical recollection, Parker convinced the “Boy Scouts of America to set aside a day for the First Americans” which they did for a running of 3 years from 1912 to 1915. Across the country at the same time Reverend Red Fox James also known as Red Fox Skiuksusha began a 4,000-mile trek on horseback to Washington, D.C., to petition the United States for an “Indian Day.” James also travelled state-to-state seeking support for U.S. citizenship to be extended to American Indians which did not happen until 9 years later in 1924.

Later in 1915, the annual Congress of the American Indian Association in Lawrence, Kansas formally approved a plan concerning American Indian Day for the state.

The American Indian Association president at the time Reverend Sherman Coolidge, an Arapaho Minister also issued a proclamation on Sept. 28, 1915, which declared the second Saturday of each May as an American Indian Day and contained the first formal appeal for recognition of Indians as US citizens. Following Kansas’s lead several states followed suit in 1919 by declaring days in early September honoring America’s first people. Once heritage month reached the government level it was first presented as a day of observance, then a week in 1986 due to prompts from Congress. Both law and proclamations passed by Congress recognized American Indians as the first inhabitants of the lands as well as made mentions of their contributions to United States.

Since that time as requested by Congress, Presidents have been making proclamations yearly honoring the achievements of the American Indians. The National Congress of American Indians says this “month is a time to celebrate rich and diverse cultures, traditions, and histories and to acknowledge the important contributions of Native people.

Native American Heritage Month is also an opportune time to educate the general public about tribes, to raise a general awareness about the unique challenges Native people have faced both historically and in the present, and the ways in which tribal citizens have worked to conquer these challenges.”

Celebration events are currently happening throughout the reservation and neighboring cities. Please check the Leech Lake News calendar for more information.

Melissa was a free-spirited woman who loved going to concerts and powwows. She could never just stay in the house; she was always out and about with her friends, except when she was hosting her holiday or game day parties. Melissa was always cooking for her family and parties and hated it when something didn’t turn out. She had the best sense of humor and loved making other people laugh. Melissa was always honest and wasn’t afraid to speak her mind. Her fur babies Jackson, Bizhiki and Wolfie held a special place in her heart. Melissa embraced her native culture and was very spiritual; she loved speaking Ojibwe and never said “good-bye” but “Gigawaabamin”. She loved getting dressed up and playing her music loud, but her greatest joy in life was spending time with her children and granddaughter Elysia.

Family that Melissa is reunited with are her father, Lawrence Johnson, Sr.; sister, Christina Johnson; grandmas, Isabella Monroe and Irene Johnson; aunts, Adeline and Tonya Monroe; uncles, Harold, Clyde and Calvin Monroe; nephew, Sonnie Ringley and the father of her children, Peter Jones.

Those left behind to cherish her memory are her children, Delbert (Sarah) Rushman, Jr. of Grand Rapids, Jaylyssa (Bernabe) Johnson of Walker and Jazlynn Jones of Cass Lake; her mother, Darlene Monroe of Onigum; grand-daughter, Elysia Rushman; brothers, Lawrence Johnson, Jr. and Sundance Johnson; sister, Brenda Johnson; aunts, Evelyn Monroe, Wanda McFagen, Elaine Saccoman and Betsy Johnson; uncles. Lewis Taylor, Bill Pell, Roger and Edwin Monroe; numerous nieces, nephews, other relatives and many friends.

A wake for Melissa will begin at 7:00 p.m., Saturday, October 26 and continue until her 11:00 a.m. funeral service on Monday, October 28 all to be held at the Onigum Community Center in Onigum, MN. LLTC Lakers hold 7th Black and Yellow Game Event

By Kayla Duos

Cass Lake – The Leech Lake Tribal College Basketball team began this season facing off with one of the toughest competitors—their predecessors.

In the seventh annual black and yellow game sponsored by the school, former Lakers alumni donned their jerseys once more and took on this year's team in two 25 minute halves. Coach Brady Fairbanks said the night more than anything a great warmup for his players and a way to connect with the community.

"This event is about getting everyone together and getting the community together and having fun for the kids. There's not too many big events in the area for kids and this is something since I started the program that we've done every single year," said Fairbanks.

The black and yellow game every year features gifts for children, alumni recognition and introduction to the 2019 team. The Lakers had a big shakeup in its roster this year, with only four returning players and five incoming freshmen. Among those freshmen are a few familiar faces like Jared Brown who played for the Cass Lake Bena Panthers last season.

With a new team and a new season, Fairbanks said the team's strategy has changed. "Last year when we started the year off we had a lot of height, this year we have a lot of speed and shooting—not so much height. So, we've had to do a lot of changing of the way we practice and how we go about training, but we're going to come out strong," said Fairbanks.

The Lakers play their first home game December 6 and 7 against Trinity Bible at the Cass Lake Bena High School and host the NIAC conference championships in late February. For more information on this year's Lakers schedule, please check the Leech Lake Tribal College Facebook page.
