Leech Lake Tribal College Breaks Ground For New Campus
By Patsy Gordon

It was a chilly and overcast day for the groundbreaking ceremony for the Leech Lake Tribal College, but that didn’t stop anyone from attending. There was a great turnout for the event. Leah Carpenter, Interim Tribal College President, emceed the event. Carpenter said, “Leech Lake Tribal college stands today as a symbol of hope for the people and stands for cultural integrity.” She said, “We have some awesome people that work at the College and some incredibly awesome students.” Carpenter also thanked the funders, the American Indian College Fund who donated

“Mock Car Crash Training”
By Cari Tabor

Cass Lake/Bena High School students had no clue what was going on when they walked out of class on Wednesday, April 28, 2004 and headed toward the schools athletic field. Waiting for them were Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig High School students along with a large object hidden under a tarp.

Before students could get settled in the bleachers a loud squealing and then a crashing sound immediately stole their attention.

The students looked in awe as the “victims” of the mock car crash jumped out to explore the accident. Unfortunately, one young lady did not survive after crashing through the window and then landing on the hood of the vehicle.

First to arrive on the scene was the Cass Lake First Responders and then the Leech Lake Department of Public Safety, the Cass Lake County Sheriff, followed by the Leech Lake

Newly Formed Leech Lake ICWA Commission Meets for the First Time
By Patsy Gordon

All too often, many of our Indian children fall through the cracks and the Counties and States in which they reside are failing them. As a result, these children are often abused, sexually and physically, left with nowhere to turn, feeling alone and unloved, and in some cases, even end up dead.

On April 15, 2004, the newly formed Leech Lake Indian Child Welfare Act (ICWA) Commission met for the first time to become orientated into their new roles and

Walleye Fever – May 15th
By Patsy Gordon

The ice is off the lakes! Fishing opener is just around the corner. I can hardly wait! Those of you who know me well will know about the passion I have for fishing. Opener will take me out on to Leech Lake right by my house. I know just where to go to catch the walleye. Don’t ask me though - it’s a secret spot!

That’s my dream every year – to catch a legend, one that I can have mounted to hang on my wall. It really is, every time I go fishing, I’m thinking, ”Maybe this time...” Well, it hasn’t happened yet. I have caught some nice ones in my time, but I need an even nicer-bigger one to take to the taxidermist, don’t I? I go fishing with my husband every summer on Lac Suel in Canada 2 or 3 times a year. I think that’s where I’m more likely to catch my legend than anywhere around here, or am I wrong? You avid Minnesota fisher people might disagree with me. My husband keeps trying to get me to go on a fly-in fishing trip with him, (everything gets so darned expensive though, especially with the cost of gasoline the way it is). This year I think I’ll do that though and again, I’ll be thinking, ”Maybe this time...”. I might be daydreaming right now, but in just a couple of weeks, it will all become a reality! I can taste those walleye already!

Watch out for the game warden though, boys! (and you girls that will be alike right there with me – trying to nab the fishermen and a few other fisherwomen and right there with me – trying to nab the fisherman, don’t they?) I go fishing with my husband every summer on Lac Suel in Canada 2 or 3 times a year. I think that’s where I’m more likely to catch my legend than anywhere around here, or am I wrong? Did you know that the Nation of Israel has a day of remembrance for the victims of the Jewish Holocaust? It is a way to honor the men, women and children that were lost, and to commit ourselves to remembering their sacrifice. Many consider the Indians plight to be similar to that of the Jews during the Holocaust, and researching my family history and heritage shows this. When I look back into my family’s tribe’s getting flooded and dying out, I can create a dam. Many graves and home areas were flooded and not replaced. I wonder what people are willing to do for their local land and culture.

As a child, I was told some of what the Indians went through, but my research shows that it was much worse than what I understood. I even came across a side note in a book I was reading about Native American culture. It quoted a document from an American government official who stated that smallpox be put into the blankets destined for Indian peoples.

Partnering
Two heads are better than one or Safety in Numbers?

By John Herrera

In this article, we will explain some of the advantages to partnering and the various legal structures that are available. It might seem obvious that it would be wise to have more than one person involved in your business. Most of the time you will definitely want to have more than one person involved in the business to help control the situation and be able to avoid making any decisions without having to first check with others. In reality most of us have had some form of legal structure that we need to be considered before any major decisions. These types of agreements are often complex and usually require the help of an attorney. Still, there are some limitations and objectives.

The first thing on our list of partnering concerns would involve how the prospective partners approach your goals. Is your partner someone who shares the same desire to satisfy the market with a good product or service? Is the potential partner someone who brings something to the business venture that you couldn’t do by yourself? This is one of the reasons why you need to consider making a partnership worthwhile. All of these factors will be considered when addressing them and understanding how they can mean the difference between success and failure.

For example, you might have experience in understanding a service or product but lack the experience in marketing. A partnership might bring the necessary knowledge to help you succeed in the competitive world. Depending on the degree of complexity or size the need for a partner might change.

But don’t just hire people that are easy to work with. Yes, this is what most larger businesses do that have the availability of funds on hand. However, there are many instances where even the larger businesses try to consider partnering.

For tribal businesses, partnering has been used to fill gaps in expertise and capital. Reserve housing, farming, fishing, hotels, transportation and the list goes on.

For example, you might have a need for capital often goes along with partnering. A capital partner brings the necessary resources such as funds for bringing in land, buildings, equipment and cash to be used in the venture. Sometimes you can exist perfectly well without a partner however you might find that you need someone else to help provide the potential growth of your business venture.

Staying small to protect your sole ownership is often referred to as being satisfied with the seed and not the watermelon.

Both individuals and tribal organizations should be concerned with the type of organizational structure that they are going to use. The individual needs to assess the need to bring in others for the same reason that tribal corporations in a main respect. A corporation can continue as a legal entity regardless of the need for a partner. There are some common production of food, shelter, clothing, and/or a share in the revenues. The strategic alliance substantially limits the liability of the parties for the others actions. Strategic alliances are often used to a greater extent, as businesses are required to go up to 50% in sharing success and possible failure. This type of partnering can allow businesses to share the input of others. The selection of our legal partners would provide a much greater variety of goods and services then they could help themselves.

Although agreements are a necessary part of partnering as you can help to resolve differences you are not the only substitute for chemistry. Chemistry is the ability of each partner to work together with the other. The main partnering concerns would involve how the prospective partners approach your goals. Is your partner someone who shares the same desire to satisfy the market with a good product or service? Is the potential partner someone who brings something to the business venture that you couldn’t do by yourself?
She also died a young death due to complications of diabetes. Tom and his wife, Clarice, had 6 children together, 4 boys and 2 girls. They lost their youngest son, Ralph, to cancer in January of 1996. He was 14 years old. Tom and Clarice’s children, Tom, Ralph, 3 grandsons and 1 granddaughter. Six of these grandchildren (5 boys and 1 girl) are alive today. They also have 2 great grandsons, a boy and 2 great granddaughters. Tom and Clarice later divorced.

Tom married his second wife, Joyce, on September 13, 1985. They currently reside in their newly built home in the city of Little Wolf Lake near Cass Lake. Tom went to school in Federal Dam, Boy River, and Walker where he completed the 9th grade. Tom grew up speaking Ojibwe and English and has a high school Equivalency of speaking Ojibwe today.

In 1967, he obtained his high school diploma and went on to graduate from Bennett State University with a degree in Business Administration.

Tom joined the Navy in 1951 and served two years during the Korean War. He has not yet been discharged. In 1963 he did his basic training in San Francisco, California. He served as a deck hand and a cook aboard a destroyer escort ship named the “U.S.S. Oregon.” When he arrived in Vietnam he had been there for two years. He said it was a day and a night worse than you could imagine. He said, “It was like a war zone.”

Tom called his doctor, he asked him, “Where are you, Tom?” Tom chose to do home dialysis instead of having the dialysis procedure done in the hospital. Tom continued to care for his father until he died in 1985. Tom says his wife, Joyce, “is a big dude, man!” He got through basic training and his sobriety ever since. His main goal in life is to get that confidence and he did succeed. According to him, “I was a late bloomer.”

Tom White is 69 years old and was born the youngest of 10 children to John White and Lily White Westly on December 28, 1934 in Onigum, Minnesota. His parents had a large family. He and his siblings grew up on the Fond du Lac Reservation. Tom says his wife, Joyce, “is a big dude, man!” He got through basic training and his sobriety ever since. Deleonn David Beaulieu

We long to hear the sound of your voice in the wind.
We miss your laughter, and seeing your boyish grin.
We miss you still Daddy as the day we lost you.
Times Dad, we will never forget....

Memorial Building in Cass Lake with Funeral services were held in Minneapolis, MN.

Delores was born August 13, 1939, in Onigum, MN, the dauter of Martin and Mary Jane (Hart) Beaulieu.

Richard Wakonabo, Sr.
2/16/1937 – 8/06/2003

To our Dad:
We miss you still Daddy as the day you left.
Mom says that each day its got to be easier, we miss your smiling face, and all the times we played games, all the good times.

You were there for us every day.
Sadly missed by: Mom, Daughters, Sisters, Brothers, Grandson, Uncles, Cousins and friends.

In Loving Memory of my son, Deb Beaulieu

In Memory of Frances Ann Jordan
By Theresa Jordan

We know you will be with us everyday in good times, bad times, in every way.
We will see you in our children and grandchildren for many generations to come.
You talked to us always keep Jesus in your heart and to pray when the road gets a little rough.

Well Mom, it is going to be very tough to go on without your smiling face.
Thank you for everything you taught us, that family is very important.
our special talents, humor, and love.
Thank you for always being there for us.

I remember there were times when we would just quit and be quiet, but you would also enjoy the noise of your grandchildren.
But of all, thank you for always being there
You left us on a cold day in February and went to the warmth of Jesus’ arms.
You told us not to be afraid, because you would always be with us.
You were strong until the very end and went to the warmth of Jesus’ arms.
You left us on a cold day in February and went to the warmth of Jesus’ arms.
You were strong until the very end and went to the warmth of Jesus’ arms.

Happy 2nd Birthday to our Miss
Leanna, Lysa, Dylah, Yahia, Max & Sam

We would like to wish our Grandmother, Elizabeth (Taylor) Lemon a Belated Birthday Wish. She turned 95 years old on April 10, 2004. She was born in 1909, in Onaga, Kansas and we believe that is the truly the first, Elizabeth Taylor! She is one of the eldest female Leech Lake Band members. Our Grandmother had taught us many things, especially to be proud of who we are and to be respectful to others. Of course, she had her comments on how we should avoid some of the vices of many businesses, the Band, and life in general. She saw some of the remarkable changes in our society, including women’s rights, segregation, world wars, our society, women’s rights and life in general. She has been a part of many businesses, the Band, on how she viewed operations to be respectful to others. Of us many things, especially to Leech Lake Band members.

Elizabeth (Taylor) Lemon Jr., Daughter-in-law, Delores beloved brother John Lemon, (Lemon) Papasodora, Daniel Birthday, Grandma! Love, Gina

No matter what occurred, she turned 95 years old on April 10, 2004
