WASHINGTON – The Washington Redskins name is officially being retired.

The name change announced Monday July 13 through a press release, will be effective immediately. Team owner Dan Snyder, and Coach Ron Rivera will begin overseeing development of a new name, and design for the team.

The move came less than two weeks after owner Dan Snyder, who once stated he would never change the name, launched a “thorough review” amid pressure from sponsors. FedEx, Nike, Pepsi and Bank of America all lined up against the name, which was given to the franchise in 1933 when the team was still based in Boston.

The name has had a harmful history with Tribal communities as it dehumanizes Native Americans and encourages bigoted stereotypes. Minnesota Lieutenant Governor Peggy Flanagan, who’s joined Minneapolis protests against the name spoke out late Monday afternoon.

“This decision is the right one - and it took WAY too long to get here. I am thankful my young Anishinaabe daughter will not have to grow up seeing this racist image of our people plastered on TV, jerseys & merchandise. This is an important first step. We’ve got more work to do” said Flanagan.

Leech Lake Tribal Chairman Faron Jackson echoed Flanagan’s statements in an official statement from the tribe, citing the tribes want for any teams still using racist names to make a change.

“We are very glad to see the Washington football team acknowledge that their former nickname has no place in today’s society,” said Leech Lake Tribal Chairman, Faron Jackson. “We want to extend a huge thank you and recognize the shareholders and investment firms who contacted Nike, FedEx and PepsiCo urging them to support this effort. We also want to recognize these companies for following through on their corporate commitments to diversity and inclusion, by pressuring the franchise owner to reach this decision. Indigenous people and Native organizations have been tirelessly campaigning to have these symbols removed for quite some time, we appreciate the assistance of all our allies in helping to move this particular case across the finish line.”

The team is expected to announce the new name and logo before the start of the 2020 season.

Dakota Access Pipeline Shut Down for 30 Days For Environmental Review

By Kayla Duoos

NORTH DAKOTA – The Dakota Access Pipeline will be shut down until further notice.

A Federal Judge sided with the Cheyenne River Sioux, and Standing Rock Sioux tribes, Monday July 6, citing the need for further environmental review to be done on the site. The pipeline will need to shut down and remove all oil within 30 days, to abide by the judges orders.

The pipeline extends more than 1,000 miles from North Dakota to Illinois – but the issue is the portion of the project that is buried under the Missouri River. The Standing Rock Sioux tribe said a leak will contaminate drinking water and sacred lands.

U.S. District Judge James Boasberg said in the 24-page order that he was “mindful of the disruption such a shutdown will cause,” but said he had concluded that the pipeline must be shut down.

The pipeline company said it could lose $643 million in the second half of 2020 and $1.4 billion in 2021 if shut down. The court said: “All of these financial losses would be absorbed by the owners of Dakota Access;” particularly Energy Transfer Partners, the current parent company of DAPL after a merger with Sunoco.”

But Boasberg’s ruling is clear on that point that the shut down is necessary “given the seriousness of the Corps’ error, the impossibility of a simple fix, the fact that Dakota Access did assume much of its economic risk knowingly, and the potential harm each day the pipeline operates, the Court is forced to conclude that the flow of oil must cease.”

The Cheyenne River Sioux and Standing Rock Sioux tribes have yet to make a public statement on the decision.

Leech Lake Gaming Sites Reopen with new Safety Guidelines amid COVID-19 Pandemic

By Kayla Duoos

CASS LAKE – Leech Lake Gaming has an entirely new rulebook for the summer of 2020. Aimed at keeping both employees and patrons safe.

Since the reopening of Cedar Lakes, Northern Lights, and White Oak June 22, LLBO’s new protection orders have been in place. The four step reopening plan began with only slot machines, alcohol service on the casino floor, snack bar grab-and-go items, gift shops and promotions opening.

Patrons that arrive at the casinos will be greeted at the door with a temperature check, and be required to wear a mask, there is also multiple levels of sanitization from continual wiping down high touch areas such as slot machines, door handles, kiosks, etc. to using state of the art electrostatic disinfection equipment. Employees also are enforcing social distancing guidelines, offering gloves, hand sanitizer and complimentary masks/gloves.

Gaming Division Director Mike Auger said the changes have been tough but a necessary adjustment in keeping staff and patrons safe amid the outbreak.

“The COVID pandemic has reached all areas, including northern Minnesota. While Leech Lake Gaming cannot stop COVID, our Reopening Safety Plan, based on CDC, MDH, and LLBO Health Division guidelines. Our goal has been to provide the safest environment for our employees and patrons. Some of our safety measures include extensive cleaning using state of the art processes, social distancing, requiring masks, no indoor smoking, limited services and amenities such as food and beverage, temp taking, etc,” said Auger.

Phases two,three, and four of gaming’s reopening plan include the reopening of the hotel, July 1st, as well as gradual reopenings of each individual event center, blackjack tables, sit down dining, bars, fitness and business center, entertainment, poker, bingo, valet. Phases are expected to change as further understanding of the COVID pandemic in the area is studied.

Protests During July 4 Weekend in North Dakota

NORTH DAKOTA – Protests erupted over the Fourth of July weekend outside of Mount Rushmore regarding President Trump's impending arrival for the federal holiday.

20 citizens were arrested, many from the surrounding Tribal Nations. The protesting group occupied Highway 244 outside of the landmark for nearly three hours, preventing ticket holders from entering the President's firework celebration.

Protesters cited that the Black Hills are sacred to local Tribes, namely the Oceti Sakowin and that Trump's administration opposes interests of Indian Country and other minority groups.

"We let the world know and reminded the world who the rightful owners of the Black Hills are — the Oceti Sakowin, We made it clear that the President of the United States was not welcome in our territory, without the free prior and informed consent of our People and of our Tribal leaders," he said in a NDN Collective news release.

Both Tilsen and NDN Collective called for the closure of Mount Rushmore as a national monument and for the Black Hills to be returned to Lakota people.

LLBO Issues Resolution Requiring Face Coverings

By Kayla Duos

CASS LAKE – The Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe has passed a resolution requiring facial coverings in all Tribal buildings.

The resolution passed Thursday July 16, states that all staff and patrons entering a LLBO building must be wearing masks or cloth face coverings in shared public areas, hallways, or other common areas.

The published resolution which is in effect until further notice, was decided as the band has begun reopening offices. Cases have been trending upward in Minnesota for several weeks, in all parts of the state making the mask mandate a key point in keeping Tribal Members safe. Minnesota had nearly 1,500 more active COVID-19 cases than it did in mid-June, according to data released Friday July 10th.

There are currently 42,281 cases confirmed, 1,502 deaths within the state, death numbers remain on the decline as more young people are contracting the disease, but are doing so through community spread. Keeping these numbers in mind, Governor Walz and Medical groups in Minnesota and the state Health Department have announced that a statewide mask requirement is also on the table. There are currently 23 other states who have similar orders in place.

"It’s the easiest thing we can do to keep our business open, it’s the easiest thing we can do to protect our neighbors, the science is behind it and we simply need people to do it. I would note that Goldman Sachs did a study around how to get people to wear masks and they looked at 20 states and unfortunately we ranked last in the number of people wearing masks here in Minnesota. So, we got work to do," said Walz.

Minnesota cities Winona, Rochester, Mankato, Minneapolis, St. Paul and Edina have all ordered mandatory mask-wearing in the cities' public spaces.
To the students, faculty, staff of Leech Lake Tribal College and the community that we serve.

The Leech Lake Tribal College is committed to providing quality higher education that is grounded in Anishinaabe values. Our mission is defined by the Seven Grandfather Values and it is with these values in mind that we came to a decision as to how to proceed for the upcoming semester as we continue to weather the COVID Pandemic.

The Leech Lake Tribal College will operate in a modified fashion for the Fall Semester. The majority of classes will be offered online. Some of our classes will operate in a hybrid fashion, that is there will be some classes and/or labs that will meet on campus during the semester on a very limited basis. And there are some classes which, by their very nature, must meet on campus. Those classes are identified in our schedule as to which classes are offered as Online, Hybrid or On-campus.

Needless to say, we are taking every precaution to ensure that anytime a class meets on campus, that strict health and safety guidelines are in place and stringently adhered to. We will be requiring that students can come to campus ONLY for classes that they are enrolled in, or by prior appointment with the office that you are visiting. We are also mandating that all students must wear masks while on campus and we will be strictly enforcing social distance protocols.

I strongly urge you as a student to get in contact with your advisor and student services to figure out what is best for you in the upcoming semester. Even if you’re not enrolled, talk to us and we can give you advice as to what will work out best for you and your academic career.

This is not something that any of us signed up for. And for you, as students, this represents a major change in your expectations of college life. We understand and want to do as much as possible to make this experience as productive and rewarding as possible. But we are doing this to ensure the safety and health not just of you, and not just for our staff and faculty (although those are considerations to be sure), we are doing this for the health of our families and our communities.

And, when it is safe for us to open up campus and have everyone return, we will gladly welcome you back to campus and greet you with open arms.

So, like almost every other college, we will be operating mostly online for Fall Semester. Please consult our schedule and your advisor for more information and details. And if you’re new to Leech Lake Tribal College, don’t hesitate to contact anyone in student services for more information about the College and what to expect in Fall Semester.

Take care, stay healthy and be safe.

LLTC Going Mainly Online for the Fall 2020 Semester with a Select Few Hybrid and On-campus Courses.

CASS LAKE – As the time for fall registration nears, the Leech Lake Tribal College carpentry program has been busy keeping their eye on the goal of making sure classes stay hands on and safe.

The Residential Carpentry program features coursework that provides students with a mix of technical and general education, theory and hands-on learning experiences. Students in the program progress from basic skills to those required of a carpenter’s apprentice.

The program provides graduates with skills required of a carpenter in a variety of building construction settings common in rural, metro or reservation settings.

One of the current hands-on learning projects for students has been the completion of a tiny house. The house first started in Spring of 2020, was designed by students in the program with help from instructions.

Instructor Saul Saucedo said the project has become a huge skill builder for many of his students as it’s their first experience working with a model this small and with solar panels. Saucedo hopes that as more students learn how simple building can be, they can take their skills learned within the program and build more homes for either themselves or their families.

Looking forward to the new semester as students return, Saucedo hopes for the project to be finished within the year.

“It’s gonna be a challenge to keep social distancing in place but it’s not something that can stop us. Our program is hands-on and just following simple guidelines is what’s going to keep students safe,” said Saucedo.

Anyone interested in enrolling in the Residential Carpentry Program, is encouraged to call Leech Lake Tribal College at (218) 335-4200.
OKLAHOMA – The US Supreme Court has ruled that a large part of eastern Oklahoma is Native American land.

The court’s 5-4 decision hinged on the question of whether the Muscogee Creek reservation continued to exist after Oklahoma became a state. The final ruling written by Justice Neil Gorsuch, states that Oklahoma prosecutors lack the authority to pursue criminal cases against Native American defendants in parts of Oklahoma due to the existence of the reservation.

The final ruling only concerns jurisdiction, not land ownership, it will however have significant legal implications for eastern Oklahoma. Much of Tulsa, the state’s second-largest city, is located on Muscogee Creek land.

The case that opened the land rights issue was an appeal by Seminole Band Member Jimcy McGirt, 71, who claimed that state courts had no authority to try him for a sex crime committed on reservation land that belongs to the Muscogee Creek Nation.

Following the ruling, the state of Oklahoma issued a joint statement with the Muscogee (Creek), Cherokee, Chickasaw, Choctaw and Seminole nations in which they agreed to work together on an agreement to address any unresolved jurisdictional issues raised by the decision.

“The Nations and the State are committed to implementing a framework of shared jurisdiction that will preserve sovereign interests and rights to self-government while affirming jurisdictional understandings, procedures, laws, and regulations that support public safety, our economy, and private property rights. We will continue our work, confident that we can accomplish more together than any of us could alone.”

2020 U.S. CENSUS OUTREACH

The 2020 Census is more than a population count. It’s a once in every 10 years opportunity to shape the future of the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe.

If you’re American Indian, you can help your Tribal community and programs across the state to receive their fair share of federal funding by following these three steps.

BOOSHKE GIIN - It’s up to you!

STEP 1: FILL OUT THE FORM
- Minnesota receives close to $15.5 billion dollars in Federal Funding annually based on U.S. Census data.
- If you’re American Indian, but you don’t fill out the form, your community could lose federal funding for tribal programs such as Head Start, SNAP, TANF, and WIC.
- If an American Indian family of four isn’t counted, your community could lose significantly more funding for these tribal programs.

STEP 2: LIST YOURSELF AS ‘PERSON 1’
- If you’re American Indian, and you live in a mixed, Native and non-Native (White) household - whether you’re a spouse or significant other – please list the American Indian Person as ‘Person 1’ for question 5.
- If ‘Person 1’ says he or she is ‘American Indian,’ then the entire household is counted as one with a American Indian head of household.
- ‘Person 1’ doesn’t have to be male or pay more than half of the household expenses.

STEP 3: WRITE IN YOUR TRIBE
- If you’re American Indian, please list the name of your federally recognized tribe - Leech Lake Band for example - for question 9.
- All of the federally recognized tribes in Minnesota are listed at https://mn.gov/portal/government/tribal/mn-indian-tribes/

Contact tracing call?

5 things to know

A contact tracer from your state health department might call if you’ve been exposed to COVID-19. But scammers are pretending to be contact tracers, too. Here’s how you can spot the scam.

- Real contact tracers won’t ask you for money.
  - Only scammers insist on payment by gift card, money transfer, or cryptocurrency.

- Contact tracing doesn’t require your bank account or credit card number.
  - Never share account information with anybody who contacts you asking for it.

- Legitimate contact tracers will never ask for your Social Security number.
  - Never give any part of your Social Security number to anyone who contacts you.

- Your immigration status doesn’t matter for contact tracing, so real tracers won’t ask.
  - If they do, you can bet it’s a scam.

- Do not click on a link in a text or email.
  - Doing so can download malware onto your device.

Talking to a real contact tracer helps stop the spread of COVID-19. Reporting scammers helps them, too. Report fake contact tracers to your State and at ftc.gov/complaint

For more information about contact tracing visit your state health department’s website and ftc.gov/coronavirus/scams
