Cleveland Announces MLB Team Name Change

By Kayla Duoos

WASHINGTON – Nearly a year after name changes were announced to be coming to professional sports teams to veer away from names which were derogatory to Native Americans, two teams have shared updates.

The first being the Washington football team, formerly known as the Redskins who publicly announced the future direction of the team will not include any ties to Native imagery.

The team's president, Jason Wright, who was hired in August 2020, ruled out fan favorite moniker "Warriors" in a lengthy post on the team's website, saying feedback from Native American communities showed "deep-seated discomfort" about that name.

"Failing to acknowledge our past use of Native imagery in the consideration of the new name wouldn't be mindful of the individuals and communities that were hurt by the previous name," Wright said. "We will choose an identity that unequivocally departs from any use of or approximate linkage to Native American imagery."

Wright also confirmed that Tribal feedback will remain a large part in the naming process and that the team is "down to a short list" of names.

The team's new name and logo is expected to be revealed in early 2022. The team also announced that for the upcoming season, no "Native American inspired dress" including headdresses or face paint will be allowed in the stadium.

Less than 24 hours after Washington's announcement went live – the Cleveland baseball team formerly known as the Indians will now be known as "The Guardians." The name change will become effective at the end of the 2021 season.

The team introduced their new moniker over social media July 23, with a video narrated by actor Tom Hanks who covered the team's values and why the new name fit.

More information on both teams' announcements can be found on their respective social media handles and official team websites.

Zero Cost, Health Care and Services for LLBO, Surrounding Communities

Walking Shield Returns to Leech Lake at Cass Lake-Bena High School

By Kayla Duoos

CASS LAKE – The U.S. Army, in partnership with The Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe and Cass Lake Indian Health Service returned to the reservation August 3-12 to provide medical and veterinary services to community members.

Services provided by military personnel were done as part of the Department of Defense's Innovative Readiness Training, a Civil-Military Program that builds mutually beneficial partnerships between U.S. communities and the DoD to meet training & readiness requirements for Active, Guard and Reserve service members while addressing public and civil society needs.

On August 10, Leech Lake Health Division Director Vince Rock had the opportunity to visit Cass Lake-Bena High School, the base of operations for this year's Operation Walking Shield, to get a first-hand look at the important services provided to the community, at zero cost.

Medical services provided included general exams, school exams and physicals, and general nutritional counseling. Dental services provided included exams, x-rays, extractions and fillings. Since health services began August 3, the entire medical team has seen a total of more than 350 patients. The dental team has seen 168 patients, completing hundreds of needed dental procedures. The optometry section has provided 187 comprehensive eye exams for patients since the mission began. 80 physical and wellness checks were done with medical and 23 appointments were held within the missions behavioral health department.

Approximately 40 medical professionals including Doctors, Nurses, Practitioners, Dentists, Dental Technicians, and Combat Medics assigned to the 7218th Medical Support Unit, out of Louisville, Kentucky, were made available to Leech Lake and the surrounding areas.

A new section added this year that was not readily available in 2018 during the previous visit were veterinary appointments. The army provided 45 surgeries and 178 vaccines to pets throughout the 9 day visit.

Rock said these types of visits from outside community members reaching out have a far greater impact than anyone realizes.

"How we accomplish things in this world is by coming together. When the U.S. military comes here and becomes part of our community-they help us accomplish the health goals we wish to meet. It's a big plus for us and I can't express my gratitude enough for this," said Rock.

New CDC Guidelines Regarding Vaccinated Individuals, Masks

By Kayla Duoos

rently considered "high" risk for COVID transmission.

WASHINGTON – The CDC has released new revised guidelines for mask wearing for vaccinated citizens.

The new guidelines, altered due to the delta variant, are asking for vaccinated people to resume wearing masks in highly transmissible areas. You can research highly transmissible areas on the CDC.gov website. According to CDC Director Dr. Rochelle Walensky, "highly-transmissible" means an area has seen more than 100 cases per 100,000 over a 7-day period.

Currently in Minnesota, most of Northern Minnesota including the reservation are in "substantial" transmissible state which falls under the state's and CDC's guidelines for indoor mask wearing. Southern Minnesota areas, near the highly populated Minneapolis however are cur-

The Delta strain is a SARS-CoV-2 mutation that originally surfaced in India. The first Delta case was identified in December 2020, and spread rapidly, soon becoming the dominant strain of the virus in both India and then Great Britain. By the end of July, Delta was the cause of more than 80% of new U.S. COVID-19 cases, according to Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) estimates.

The World Health Organization (WHO) has called this version of the virus "the fastest and fittest." The CDC labeled Delta as "a variant of concern," using a designation also given to the Alpha strain that first appeared in Great Britain, the Beta strain that first surfaced in South Africa, and the Gamma strain identified in Brazil. (The new naming conventions for the variants were established by the WHO as an alternative to numerical names).

MN COVID-19 update: August

By Kayla Duoos

MINNEAPOLIS – The COVID-19 Delta Variant has run rampant throughout the state who had begun settling down into what they assumed was the end of the year-long health crisis.

The highly infectious delta variant has brought a large number of cases among unvaccinated and a small subset of breakthrough cases of vaccinated residents in the state. Alongside this spike in cases have come a new series of vaccine incentives, and mandates with further resolutions being considered by the state.

First in the series of updated mandates include Minneapolis Public Schools who are now requiring students and staff to mask up. Shortly after this Minnesota colleges undertook the same measure as the 2021-2022 school year quickly approaches. The University of Minnesota in particular will also require students to be vaccinated before returning to campus.

Duluth Mayor Emily Larson issued a city-wide indoor mask mandate, July 27 asking residents to "do your part" to rein in the spread of the COVID-19 delta variant. Minneapolis Mayor Jacob Frey also issued a city-wide mask mandate August 3rd stating "Get vaccinated, getting the vaccine will help protect you and your neighbors from a deadly virus and it is the single most important action we can all take to curb the need for further restrictions."

Both mandates came shortly after the CDC updated its guidelines to bring back masks for highly transmissionable areas, which now include nearly the entire state.

Tim Walz '$100 incentive for Minnesota residents to get vaccinated has proved to be relatively successful. Walz incentive which ran August 4-15, and saw 30,000 applicants.

A look at the numbers as of August 11:

The Minnesota Department of Health says the state's total number of confirmed coronavirus cases is now at 622,216. Of them, nearly 607,480 no longer require isolation.

The state's death toll is now at 7,715 with 4,529 of those deaths involving cases in long-term care (LTC) facilities.

Health officials say approximately 10,870,599 Minnesotans have been tested for the virus so far including 7,464 on the reservation.

If you are experiencing symptoms or have been exposed, please call the Cass Lake IHS COVID hotline at 335-3426 or 335-3427 Monday through Friday 8:00 am to 4:30 pm. If you are experiencing shortness of breath, please contact the Emergency Department at 335-3327 or dial 911.

IHS eligible community members 18 years and older are now eligible to receive the COVID vaccine. If you are interested please call the COVID-19 Vaccine hotline and reserve your spot now at 218-368-4763.

Red Lake Nation Police Officer Killed in the Line of Duty

By Kayla Duoos

REDBY – A Red Lake Nation police officer was killed in the line of duty, July 27.

Ryan Bialke, 37 was shot Tuesday, July 27, when responding to a call in Red Lake, Minnesota, regarding a suicidal male with children possibly present. He was taken to Red Lake Hospital where he later died.

Bialke was a six-year veteran with the Red Lake Police Department and leaves behind a wife and four children.

Minnesota Gov. Tim Walz ordered that all U.S. and Minnesota flags be flown at half-staff until sunset Monday August 9, in honor of Bialke.

David Brian Donnell Jr., 28, is charged with one count for the "unlawful killing" of Bialke, and four additional counts for assaulting the other responding Red Lake officers with a dangerous weapon.

Officer Bialke was escorted through Bemidji by fellow emergency service responders to the Greenwood Cemetery.

A GoFundMe page has been set up by the Red Lake Tribal Council as a memorial fund in honor of Bialke's four children and can be found on the Red Lake Nation Facebook page. More than $24,000 had been raised as of August 11.

The FBI and Minnesota Bureau of Criminal Apprehension are assisting the Red Lake Police Department in the investigation.

Tribal Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act

By Kayla Duoos

WASHINGTON – U.S. Senator Brian Schatz (D-Hawai'i), chairman of the Senate Committee on Indian Affairs, voted August 10 to pass a bipartisan infrastructure deal that includes more than $11 billion in dedicated funding for Tribes and Native communities.

The bipartisan Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act will deliver targeted federal resources to advance deployment of infrastructure in Native communities.

"Native communities' critical infrastructure needs, such as sanitation, transportation, water settlements, and broadband, have been well documented – yet underfunded – for decades. After COVID hit, it became clear that robust federal investment to build new and update existing infrastructure in Native communities was essential," said Chairman Schatz. "The more than $11 billion for Native communities is proof positive that we can come together, on a bipartisan basis, to get things done. But our efforts don't end today – we have more work to do to better represent and serve Native communities across the country."

The $11 billion investment in Native communities includes:

- $3.5 billion for the Indian Health Service Sanitation Facilities Construction Program

- $3 billion for the US Department of Transportation Tribal Transportation Program
- $2.5 billion to address approved Indian water rights settlements
- $2 billion for the National Telecommunications and Information Administration Tribal Broadband Connectivity Program to expand broadband access on Tribal lands and Hawaiian Home Lands

Tribes and Native-serving organizations are set to receive additional funding to support transportation enhancement, energy development, water and sanitation construction, broadband deployment, climate resiliency, natural resource management, and environmental remediation, among other infrastructure priorities for Native communities.

The Infrastructure Investment and Jobs Act was passed by the Senate and the bill will head to the House for further consideration.

Future of Line 3 on Leech Lake

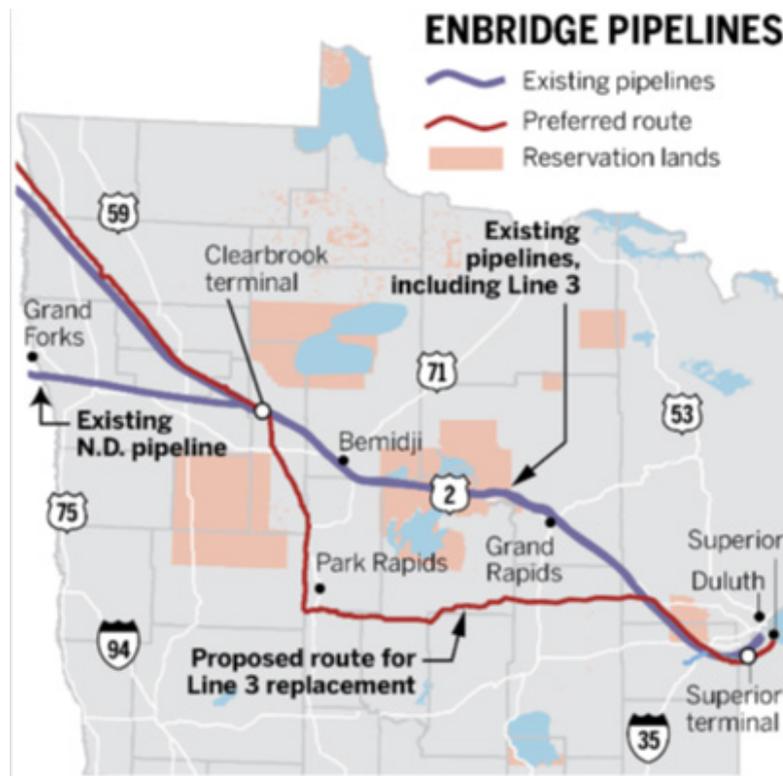

Submitted by Ben Benoit and Lakota Ironboy | LLBO DRM

With all the recent news about the Line 3 (L3) construction happening, you may be wondering; what is going to happen with the old line 3 that currently runs across the Leech Lake Reservation? As a part of the Enbridge L3 Replacement Project, the original L3 pipeline traversing the Leech Lake Reservation will be decommissioned once the new L3 outside the Leech Lake Reservation becomes active this fall 2021. In 2018, the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe and Enbridge Energy came to an agreement about the future of the old Line 3 as it relates to the Leech Lake Reservation to ensure abandoned pipeline from this replacement project, won't be a mess we leave for our children.

Enbridge's rationale for decommissioning and building a new line 3 is safety and maintenance concerns. The original L3 was constructed in 1961 and now has significant structural concerns. According to Enbridge data, this 60-year-old piece of infrastructure is subject to over 1,400 "structural integrity anomalies," including corrosion and long seam cracking. As a result, it has experienced a number of failures during its 60 years of history.

The newly constructed L3 is anticipated to be fully functioning in this October and L3 decommissioning will begin at the same time. The decommissioning process involves: removing oil from the pipeline; cleaning the pipeline; physically disconnecting the pipeline; segmenting the pipeline and continuing to monitor it or remove it from the ground. The purging or cleaning of the pipeline is set to begin as soon as the replacement pipeline is operational. The entire decommissioning process likely will take one to two years depending on environmental permitting alignment with the construction season for pipe removal. Enbridge is responsible and liable for Line 3 and has committed to continue to monitor the deactivated pipeline and maintain the right of way for the decommissioned line as long as any piece of L3 is in the ground.

Currently, LLBO is working with Leech Lake Tribally owned contractors for cultural and environmental surveying to ensure there are minimal impacts to our environment and cultural resources. These surveys consist of identifying significant cultural resources within work areas to be avoided. The Leech Lake Division of Resource Management (LLDRM) is overseeing these surveys.

Across the Leech Lake Reservation Line 3 spans roughly 40 miles. Of those 40 miles, 73% of the land the pipeline currently sits on is public lands managed by the Chippewa National Forest or State of Minnesota. Decommissioning of Line 3 on these public lands will include the removal of Line 3 on all areas that are not high risk to cultural and environmental resources. The remaining 27% is private ownership. Under Enbridge's Land Owner Choice Program, landowners that have L3 crossing their lands can decide whether the existing L3 is deactivated in place or removed from their property. We hope that through Leech Lake's outreach, landowners will understand the extent of the removal and work with LLDRM staff to ensure the Reservation resources are protected and maintained for all. Currently, DRM staff are working to begin outreach to these landowners and preparing for public meetings later this fall in our communities to outline the deactivation plans for the Leech Lake Reservation.

Harris, Haaland and Tribal Leaders Meet to Discuss The Native Vote

By Kayla Duoos

WASHINGTON – On July 28, Vice President Kamala Harris and Interior Department Secretary Deb Haaland met with four tribal representatives to discuss expanding access to voting for Native American communities.

In attendance were: Oglala Sioux Tribal President Kevin Killer; chairwoman of the Confederated Salish and Kootenai Tribes in Montana, Shelly Fryant; president of the Alaska Federation of Natives, Julie Kikta; Diné Founder of protect the Sacred Dine, Allie Young; and co-founder of the North Dakota Native Caucus, Prairie Rose Seminole.

Each Tribal representative shared specific barriers their communities face while voting. These barriers include distance to polling location; restrictive voting laws that toss out votes cast in the wrong precinct or bars collection of absentee ballots by anyone other than a family or caregiver; difficulties with receiving absentee ballots to home addresses on reservations; and lack of translated voting materials available for tribal elders as well as rejection of Tribal I.D's.

Representatives also shared tactics in engaging young voters and getting them to the polls.

In an official statement released by the Tribal officials in attendance they said passing a bill to ensure Native voting rights was the only direction forward in ensuring Native Americans will have access to their constitutional rights.

“Native people did not even gain citizenship until 1924 and in many cases were denied the right to vote until 1965 when Congress removed the discriminatory barriers from Native voting in the Voting Rights Act.

The only way to protect our most fundamental and constitutional right—the right to vote—is for Congress to meet its fiduciary trust responsibility to protect the rights of the Native American people by enacting the Native American Voting Rights Act as part of any legislation Congress passes with respect to voting rights.”

As a result of the meeting, Harris urged Congress to pass two laws that would make voting more accessible for Native communities, as well as other historically disenfranchised voters: the John Lewis Voting Rights Advancement Act, and the For The People Act.

The bills would increase polling stations, provide free early ballots and absentee ballots, and provide bilingual election materials and oral language assistance.

Native American Language Resource Center Act passes U.S. Senate

By Kayla Duoos

WASHINGTON – The U.S. Senate committee for Indian Affairs recently passed two bills supporting the preservation of Native American language.

The Native American Language Resource Center Act of 2021 strengthens Native American language schools and programs with experience and coordinated support and the second bill entitled Durbin Feeling Native American Languages Act of 2021, makes the federal government more accountable by setting clear goals and asking for direct input from Native American communities on how federal resources can be more effectively used to support and revitalize Native Languages. The Durbin bill is named after the late Cherokee linguist Durbin Feeling who passed away in August 2020.

Senators Brian Schatz, (D-Hawai'i), Don Young (R-Alaska), and Lisa Murkowski (R-Alaska) introduced the bills. In his opening statement, Schatz explained the intent of the legislation on the agenda.

“These bipartisan Native languages bills will improve federal support for culturally-based Native language instruction and ensure Native American language use continues to grow,” said Chairman Schatz.

Both bills are supported by key organizations, including the Joint National Committee for Languages-National Council for Languages and International Studies, the National Congress of American Indians, the National Indian Education Association, and the National Coalition of Native American Language Schools and Programs.
