Leech Lake Announces Acquisition of Teal’s Market in Cass Lake

By Michael Chosa

CASS LAKE – After several months of negotiation with the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe, Teal’s Market has publicly announced the sale of their Cass Lake location to the tribe. The store will be rebranded as “Leech Lake Market” and open under the new ownership on Friday, October 22, 2021.

“We are very excited about this next business venture. This latest acquisition, supported by all of Tribal Council, is just one of many success stories for the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe. The purchase of Teals is a milestone in the assurance of food sovereignty for the Band as well as continuing diversification of the businesses which the Band owns and operates.” said Llbo Chairman Faron Jackson Sr.

District 3 Representative LeRoy Staples-Fairbanks adds, “Food sovereignty is about providing for ourselves and safe guarding our most treasured resource which is our people. Our communities need to know that their government is acting to ensure they will always have access to healthy and sustainable food systems. Today is a step toward defining our own food systems, and moving beyond the federal government deciding what our people consume. Today is our day, our future and our new food market!”

Food sovereignty has become a major topic for tribes throughout Indian Country as they work to address disparities in public health outcomes for indigenous people. Issues with food shortages and access were bought to the forefront during the pandemic. Teal’s emerged as a vital partner in the Band’s response efforts, helping to secure items for the monthly food boxes that were distributed to families in the area. That partnership strengthened the existing relationship between the two entities and when the opportunity arose to purchase the store, the Tribal Council acted quickly and diligently to secure the business opportunity.

Approximately 80 employees with the Teal’s organization will now come on board under the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe. The rebranded Leech Lake Market will operate under the Band’s business side, which includes three casinos (Northern Lights, Cedar Lakes and White Oak), Shingobee on the Bay, Leech Lake Express convenience stores and Leech Lake Supply Company. This acquisition further cements the Band’s position as one of the area’s top employers and economic driving forces.

Teal’s Market will be closed for inventory and transition all day on Thursday, October 21, 2021. It will reopen for business as Leech Lake Market at 7AM on Friday, October 22, 2021. Operating hours will be 7AM to 9PM, open 7 days a week.

The public is invited to attend a ribbon cutting ceremony from 12PM to 1PM on Thursday, October 21, 2021 (604 Lyle Chisholm Dr. NW, Cass Lake, MN 56633). The event will include a blessing, drum group, speakers and refreshments will be served.

CASS LAKE – The newly constructed Maajiigin Child Care Center held its grand opening in Cass Lake, Wednesday, September 22.

The 10,000 square-foot building which broke ground last fall will be home to a culturally focused learning center for children ages zero to 3. Participants in the child care program will have the opportunity to learn the Ojibwe language and participate in a variety of hands-on traditional teachings. The program’s mission statement and philosophy focus on keeping the culture alive while introducing the teachings to a new generation.

The building features 2 infant and 2 toddler classrooms, a gymnasium, a breastfeeding room, small family lounge areas, staff offices and the band’s Snap Ed program. The walls are lined with murals done by 4 local artists, photos of the staff/children with their families for a home-like feel, and special QR codes that when viewed with a smartphone camera lens, gives the Ojibwe pronunciation and English definition of the rooms primary use.

The building’s ribbon cutting was opened by a prayer by the program’s Ojibwe language mentor Waase Paulson, followed by the Cass Lake Bena drum and dance troupe. Leech Lake Early Childhood and Education staff, and Blandin foundation partners, were in attendance. Tribal Chairman Faron Jackson’s speech who opened the ceremony focused on the power our future generations hold and why investing in them, in such a way with new facilities, is important.

“These kids are blessed–this kind of programming will enhance their educational outlook. Programs like this–starting the kids out at a younger age and assessing the old values and the ways of our ancestors in such a good setting is so desperately needed. I’m so proud to be here, to see the building that will serve our community for years to come,” said Jackson.

The 2.5 million building was fully funded through grants and is only a stepping stone in what the program hopes to accomplish.

“We’re going to continue to grow here at Leech Lake. Our children and our families deserve the environments we’re going to be able to provide for them and like the Chairman said these types of investments will last generations, long after we’re gone,” said Childcare Director Lee Turney.

The Maajiigin Child Care Center is located at 16160 60th Ave. NW, Cass Lake, and is now open for applications for teachers and trainees. Anyone interested in applying can find more information at the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe’s employment page.
Pfizer COVID-19 Vaccine Booster Shot Available on Leech Lake

By Kayla Duoos

CASS LAKE – Pfizer booster shots are now available at the Cass Lake Indian hospital for LLBO employees and IHS eligible community members.

Community members are eligible those who received the Pfizer shot, six months prior and are 65 or older, 18+ with underlying medical conditions(ex. Diabetes, COPD high blood pressure, asthma, obesity, cancer), and 18+ individuals who are at greater risk of exposure due to their job (ex. healthcare workers, childcare workers, teachers, grocery store workers.)

The Pfizer booster shot was approved by the FDA, September 22 following studies that show a Pfizer-BioNTech booster shot increased the immune response in trial participants who finished their primary series 6 months earlier. With an increased immune response, people should have improved protection against COVID-19, including the Delta variant.

There are currently studies being run on the effectiveness of a booster shot for both Moderna and the Johnson and Johnson vaccine.

IHS is offering a number of venues for community members to get their booster shots, via drive thru/community clinics or scheduling with their regular provider. To get more information on upcoming clinics or to talk to a provider please call (218) 335-3200.

On This Day in History: The Battle of Sugar Point

By Kayla Duoos

On the early Wednesday morning of October 5, 1898 a handful of young Pillager men held off approximately 100 U.S. soldiers on the shores of Sugar Point. The firefight resulted in seven dead and ten wounded with no casualties reported on the Ojibwe side. The soldiers were eventually forced to retreat back to Walker, MN. This event has come to be recognized as the last military conflict between the U.S. and American Indians.

As with many conflicts, the tensions that led to the Battle of Sugar Point were varied. Lumber companies routinely swindled the Ojibwe people out of large amounts of money through unscrupulous practices.

One of the most cited complaints among the Ojibwe at that time was a “dead and burnt wood” clause which allowed the lumber barons to purchase timber at a greatly reduced rate if it was in such condition. They would often start forest fires and then quickly harvest both semi-burnt and green wood and claim it all as “dead”, reaping massive profits at the expense of the Ojibwe.

In addition to practices such as these, timber was routinely appraised at a severely lower rate on the Reservations in Minnesota than it would have been elsewhere. Money received for the timber, which was intended to sustain the Ojibwe people was mishandled, misappropriated and frequently spent frivolously by Indian Agents on behalf of the Ojibwe. When the payments would come, they were notoriously late, much to the ire of the Pillagers and other bands at that time.

Mistreatment and injustices at the hands of U.S. Marshals and other agents also played a large role. Kickback schemes abounded between these federal agents and local hotel and railroad men, who were paid by the U.S. Government each time a witness or defendant was brought before the court in Duluth. Ojibwe were routinely rounded up and brought to Duluth on false charges to line the pockets of those involved in the scam.

Delayed payments and consistent arrests in weak, unsubstantiated bootlegging cases eventually led the leaders of the Pillager tribe to send a letter to the U.S. Government asking them to look into the on-going injustices the tribe was facing.

For court.

Once arraigned and let go due to insufficient evidence, Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig was left to make the 135 mile journey home on his own accord. Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig hitched rides on multiple trains, only making it so far in the journey before being repeatedly thrown off for not having a ticket. Leading him to eventually walk the last 40 miles home in his moccasins, wearing them down to his bare feet. It was at that moment he swore he would never allow himself to be arrested ever again, lest he may perish on his next forced journey home.

The letter went unacknowledged by the U.S. Government, further perpetuating the poor relationship between the tribe and U.S. officials.

Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig (Hole-In-The-Day) was an elder Pillager man and one of the many Ojibwe who had first-hand experience of the downsfalls within the U.S. justice system. In April 1898, Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig was arrested by a U.S. Marshal on bootlegging charges and brought to Duluth for court.

Once arraigned and let go due to insufficient evidence, Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig was left to make the 135 mile journey home on his own accord. Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig hitched rides on multiple trains, only making it so far in the journey before being repeatedly thrown off for not having a ticket. Leading him to eventually walk the last 40 miles home in his moccasins, wearing them down to his bare feet. It was at that moment he swore he would never allow himself to be arrested ever again, lest he may perish on his next forced journey home.

Once the U.S. Army received word of Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig’s escape, they put out wanted notices for those reported to have been involved in his escape. To be certain those men were caught, they sent down an additional 77 soldiers from Fort Snelling.

Onigum. Recognizing the stakes at hand at the possibility of another trip to Duluth, Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig called out for help. The other Ojibwe in Onigum, hearing the pleas of one of their elders, surrounded, and gently, yet forcefully secured his release.

The army officials who were in charge of the arrest of Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig that day, went forward to tell a tale of how they were surrounded by over 200 warriors and attacked, when in reality it was a small group of Pillager band members. Reportedly, less than 20 people, mostly women, aided in Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shigs escape.

Once the U.S. Army arrived to the scene of Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig’s escape, they put out wanted notices for those reported to have been involved in his escape. To be certain those men were caught, they sent down an additional 77 soldiers from Fort Snelling.

The 80 soldiers began their quest that fateful morning and arrived on the shores of Sugar Point that afternoon. After failing to find Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig, the army set up base camp.

How the battle began has often been disputed throughout the years. The Pillager have held that the soldiers began firing on a canoe containing two women and a child as it rounded the corner of Sugar Point. The military claims that a rifle was accidentally discharged towards the Ojibwe side. Regardless, an intense firefight between the two sides erupted. The Pillager people went into that day not wanting battle but were prepared if it came.

The battle continued into the night and no harm came to any of the Ojibwe people outside of Indian Officer Gay-Gway-Day-Be-Tung (George Russell), who was allegedly shot by mistake, by a soldier who assumed he was fighting... alongside the Pillagers. The 3rd U.S. Infantry saw six causalities and ten wounded that night.

On the morning of October 7, 1898, the soldiers retreated from Sugar Point, battered, hungry and cold. Once back to safety in Walker, the commanding officer, General Bacon, would be quoted in newspapers as saying that he “scattered” and “whipped the indians good”, a poor attempt at saving face.

Once word of the battle spread, hysteria ran rampant in the surrounding areas that an “Indian Uprising” was coming. Additional troops were sent to the area, and outcries to the US Government for assistance and protection were pouring in from the non-native people in Minnesota. Memories of Custer’s defeat at Little Big Horn, just 22 years prior in 1876, led the newspapers of the day to run wild with unsubstantiated headlines.

The townspeople of Walker surrounded themselves with a 24-hour rotating shift of armed guards. In Bemidji, all of the women were herded into a courthouse as 200 armed “militiamen” stood guard outside. It took a few weeks for the buzz to die down, though the relationships between the Ojibwe and their neighbors were never fully repaired.

With all of the nation’s attention turned towards Leech Lake, the U.S. Government was forced to hear the grievances put forth by the Ojibwe people. Commissioner of Indian Affairs, William A. Jones, was soon dispatched to the area. After an extensive number of meetings with the tribal elders, an agreement was reached. Several Pillagers turned themselves in for warrants related to Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig’s escape, although Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig himself upheld his pledge to never return to U.S. Court or jail. Most of those who turned themselves in served between two to six months, and everyone involved received a full pardon from President McKinley a short time after.

Further investigations revealed the damage that had been done to the Ojibwe at the hands of the logging companies, as well as during the first arrest of Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig and those who aided in his escape. Reforms in the management of timber on the Leech Lake Reservation eventually led to the establishment of the Chippewa National Forest.

None of the Pillager Ogichidaa who engaged in battle at Sugar Point ever were tried or received punishment for their involvement. Bug-O-Nay-Ge-Shig went on to live another 18 years in the area before passing peacefully. The U.S. Army never returned to the shores of Sugar Point on Leech Lake, the site of their final battle and defeat in the period now known as the “Indian Wars.”
LLDRM Efforts to Regulate Secondary Wood Products

Submitted by Ben Benoit, DRM

Birch pole harvest is currently unregulated by the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe. Currently, Band members are able to harvest and resell birch poles throughout the Reservation. Over the past several years, the harvest of Birch poles is impacting the overall population of young birch trees within the Leech Lake Reservation and in the future could impact the availability of future mature birch trees. Considering this, the Leech Lake Division of Resource Management (LLDRM) has drafted a “Commercial Wood Products” ordinance to establish some regulations and guidance focused on the sustainable harvest of forest products intended for commercial sale. It is important to note that wood products harvested for personal or traditional use are exempt from this ordinance.

This draft ordinance does not place limits on the amount that a Band member can harvest, rather it establishes best practices to harvesters on which trees are eligible for harvest and establishes a permit system for tracking harvesters and buyers. Currently, LLDRM is publicly sharing this ordinance and planning a series of public meetings and LIC outreach to solicit feedback on the draft ordinance. A copy of the draft ordinance is available https://www.llojibwe.org/ DRM/index.html and public comments can be provided to Leech Lake Division of Resource Management attn: Ben Benoit or at Ben.Benoit@llojibwe.net.

In particular we are looking for comments on:
• Should limits be placed on Birch pole harvest?
• Should Birch pole harvest for commercial use be allowed at all?
• Have you been impacted by the harvest of birch poles?
• Any comments on the draft ordinance.

Miigwech.

WASHINGTON's First Native American Judge, Biden nominee, Lauren King

By Kayla Duooos

WASHINGTON – The first Native American federal judge in Washington state’s history, was confirmed October 5 by the senate in 55-44 vote.

Lauren J. King, a Tribal member of the Muscogee Nation, will now serve as Washington’s federal district judge for the United States District Court for the Western District of Washington while remaining in Seattle. King’s appointment makes her not only the first in her state, but the second Native American in the United States Courts for the Ninth Circuit, and only the fourth active Native American federal judge in the entire country.

King, who was nominated by President Biden for the position earlier this year, received her Juris Doctor in 2008 from the University of Virginia School of Law. She is a partner at Foster Garvey, P.C. (formerly Foster Pepper PLLC) in Seattle and chairs the firm’s Native American practice group.

Federal district court judges are nominated by the president, confirmed by the Senate and serve lifetime appointments upon good behavior.
Biden First President to Proclaim Indigenous Peoples Day, Walz Renews Yearly Proclamation

By Kayla Duos

MINNESOTA – Monday, October 11 is Indigenous Peoples day.

The holiday which replaces Columbus day in the state of Minnesota via proclamation, and various cities throughout the state is meant to focus on how Indigenous communities have persevered despite history. This year marks the sixth anniversary of the official holiday recognition for the city of Bemidji and the state.

The official change to replace Christopher Columbus day with one honoring Indigenous people in Bemidji came about in 2016. The change was made through a grassroots effort by Bemidji State Professor Vivian Delagado and students in a previous Indigenous treaty and law course who brought their pitch to the city council.

The state of Minnesota signed their proclamation replacing Christopher Columbus day that same year.

Governor Tim Walz has renewed former Governor Dayton’s original proclamation since being elected.

“Today’s a day to celebrate resiliency and diversity. It’s also a day to acknowledge the painful past, and the truth of oppression, violence and discrimination experienced by Indigenous people. Because reckoning with this past is how we move forward with justice and begin addressing inequities,” said Walz.

2021, also marks the first year a President has ever officially recognized the day via proclamation. President Biden’s press release following the day went out October 8 and acknowledged the United States long-standing history of failed promises towards Indigenous communities and his administration’s promise to invest back into Tribes.

“The Federal Government has a solemn obligation to lift up and invest in the future of Indigenous people and empower Tribal Nations to govern their own communities and make their own decisions. We must never forget the centuries-long campaign of violence, displacement, assimilation, and terror wrought upon Native communities and Tribal Nations throughout our country. Today, we acknowledge the significant sacrifices made by Native peoples to this country — and recognize their many ongoing contributions to our Nation,” said Biden.

Bears Ears Monument Restored by Biden

By Kayla Duoos

WASHINGTON – President Joe Biden issued a proclamation, Friday October 8 to restore the Tribally sacred Bears Ears national monument to its former glory.

Biden's proclamation which covers the restoration of Bear Ears, Northeast Canyons and Seamounts Marine, and the Grand Staircase-Escalante reversed a decision by President Donald Trump that opened the lands for mining and other development. Trump's decision, reduced Bear Ears square footage by 85%, despite the fact that Bear Ears holds sacred value for local Tribes and is home to ancient cliff dwellings and petroglyphs.

The Bears Ears monument encompasses more than 1.3 million acres in southern Utah and was declared a national monument during Obama’s administration thanks to the Hopi Tribe, Navajo Nation, Ute Indian Tribe of the Uintah and Ouray Reservation, Ute Mountain Ute Tribe, and Pueblo of Zuni who came together to request the areas be protected.

The Bears Ears is a living landscape,” Haaland said. “This is a place that must be protected in perpetuity for every American and every child of the world.”

President Biden signed the proclamation on Friday, October 8, restoring protections for Bears Ears, Northeast Canyons, Seamounts Marine and the Grand Staircase-Escalante Monuments Reversing a Trump era decision. Photo: Susan Walsh | AP

Secretary of the Interior Deb Haaland who has been championing Tribal members needs to be put first, spoke highly of Biden’s decision.

“The Bears Ears is a living landscape,” Haaland said. “This is a place that must be protected in perpetuity for every American and every child of the world.”

The president’s actions write “a new chapter that embraces Indigenous knowledge, ensures tribal leadership has a seat at the table and demonstrates that by working together we can build a brighter future for all of us,” she said.

Bears Ears is currently open at this current point in time for Traditional uses, alongside fishing and hunting.

Dr. Fauci and CDC Director, Walensky
Statements Regarding Halloween Celebrations Amid Ongoing Pandemic

By Kayla Duoos

WASHINGTON – Dr. Anthony Fauci has given the go-ahead for celebrating Halloween this year.

In a live appearance, Saturday October 9 on CNN’s state of the Union, the nation’s infectious disease expert said vaccinated families should “go out there and enjoy Halloween.” He followed this statement by asking unvaccinated families to consider masking up and taking other precautions for the holiday.

Fauci’s statements echo CDC director Rochelle Walensky during an interview with Face the Nation late last month. When asked if it was safe for kids to hit the sidewalks on Halloween, Walensky responded that, “if you’re able to be outdoors, absolutely.”

“Limit crowds,” she continued, “I wouldn’t necessarily go to a crowded-Halloween party, but I think that we should be able to let our kids go trick-or-treating in small groups.

The public should know that wearing a Halloween mask does not replace or mimic the effectiveness of a cloth face mask, and that celebrating virtually or with members of your own household poses the least amount of risk for spread.

If you think that you may have been exposed during your halloween celebration, take extra precautions for 14 days after the event to protect others, such as staying home as much as possible, avoid individuals who are more susceptible to infection and get tested.

If you are notified that you were a close contact of someone who tested positive for COVID-19, stay home for 14 days from the last time you had contact with that person. Monitor for symptoms of coronavirus.

Beatrice Bivens

Beatrice Elaine Bivens, “Wabashkemuckwa Iqwe,” 76 years old of Ball Club Minnesota survived by her children: Calvin Goggleye (Bernice) of Inger, Phyllis Wade of Ball Club, Patricia Wade(Bryan) of Bena, Michael Wade Jr (Crispy) of Mille Lacs, Lori Wade of St Paul, Christine Leith of Akley, Michael Wade Sr., Husband of Mille Lacs, Daughter in-law Aurelia Chemema of Arizona. 16 grandchildren and 18 great grandchildren.

Preceded in death by: Parents Maggie and Leo Matthews, Sisters Alice, Dorothy Goggleye, Stella Howard and Loraine White and brother Vernon Goggleye.

Beatrice was a strong proponent for furthering education. Bea Graduated from Spring Lake Grammer School in 1960 and went on to Beauty School in Minneapolis. Bea instilled the love of education in her children.

She graduated from University of Minnesota Duluth with her Bachelors Degree in Psychology.

Bea worked at various facilities as a Chemical Dependency counselor, Native American educational programs from Early Childhood to Native American High School Programs as Guidance Counselor and in other capacities Bea loved and remembered all of the students through-out the years and acknowledged them when she met up with them as they grew older and had families of their own.

Beatrice loved fishing, hunting and cooking as a young woman growing up in a traditional Ojibwe family. She also loved pow-wows she danced jingle dress for many years. Bea loved spending time with her family, cooking, sewing, doing jigsaw puzzles she could finish a 1000 piece puzzle in a matter of hours. She also loved going to rummage sales in the summer time either with her granddaughters or with her sister Doreen, they spent Saturdays in the thrift stores in Grand Rapids and Bemidji, she was always looking for a deal on pretty fabrics. Bea could take a sewing machine apart and put it back together. Bea did all her own maintenance and repair work, she loved looking at the inner-workings of her many sewing machines.

Bea will forever be known for her beautiful quilts and quilt work and regalia she lovingly made for her family and friends, she always added a little personal loving touch to each project she completed.

Pallbearers: John Wakabano, Darrell Wilson Sr., Loren Howard, Wilfred Corpola, Keith Robinson, Brian Howard.

The definition of Salsa according to the Merriam-Webster dictionary: “a usually spicy sauce of chopped tomatoes, onions and peppers that is commonly served with Mexican food”. Salsas can be made in a variety of ways. Such as, red salsa, green (verde) salsa and fruit salsas to name a few. This month’s recipe is a cooked red salsa which can be considered a good base recipe that can be adjusted to heat and taste. For a salsa with less heat eliminate the Jalapenos, bell peppers can be added to the banana peppers. For more of a kick, keep the Jalapenos, or add another hot pepper such as Pepperoncini or Anaheim. Add a teaspoon or more of smoked paprika a smokier flavor.

Salsa can be a helpful part of weekly meal planning. Salsas can be pre-made and canned for the week and used in a variety of ways such as:
- As a baked potato topping instead of high calorie sour cream and butter.
- As a sauce for chicken, fish or other foods.
- As part of the fillings in a taco or burrito.
- In an omelet or mixed with scrambled eggs.
- If a fruit salsa is sweet enough, as a dessert topping
- As a snack with tortilla chips, or raw vegetables

The diabetes clinic garden in the backyard grew a wide variety of peppers of various colors and flavors this summer. If you are considering a backyard or patio garden next summer, peppers of all kinds are great addition and require little space.

Nutritionally, peppers are a good source of fiber, beta carotene, calcium, potassium and a variety of vitamins. Peppers also have a substance called capsaicin which is what makes peppers “hot” or “spicy”. Capsaicin is often referred to in medical literature as an (2) “anti-obesity drug” a “spicy solution to the management of obesity,” so use this recipe and incorporate more peppers into your meals.

Ball Complete Home Preserving directions:
1. Fill water bath canner to cover empty jars by at least 1 inch of water. Heat jars to simmer (180 degrees F) to prevent jar breakage.
2. Following a tested canning recipe. Fill a hot jar with prepared food and the rim (headspace) as indicated in the recipe.
3. Wipe any food from the rim of the jar. Center new lid on the jar, then twist on band just until fingertip tight.
4. Place filled jar onto rack in simmering water. Repeat steps 2 and 3 for additional jars. Filled jars should be covered by 1 inch of water. Place lid on canner and heat to steady boil. Boil jars for the time specified in recipe, adjusting for altitude (see chart).
5. Turn off heat and remove canner lid. Let jars stand in water for 5 minutes. Remove from water and cool jars upright on cutting board, wire rack or towel on countertop for 12 to 24 hours.

Homemade Cooked Red Salsa for Canning

- 7 cups of tomatoes-diced
- 1 &frac12 cups onions-diced
- 2 cloves garlic
- &frac12 cup banana peppers
- &frac14 cup lime juice
- 1 teaspoon cumin
- 1 cup fresh cilantro- chopped
- 3 oz tomato paste
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon chili powder
- 1 &frac12 cups Jalapeno peppers
- 1 &frac12 cups of tomatoes
- 1 &frac14 cups of onions
- 1 teaspoon of salt
- 1 teaspoon of cumin
- 1 teaspoon of chili powder
- 1 cup of tomato paste

Directions:
Boil water for jars. Mix all ingredients in a sauce pan & bring to a boil for about 5 minutes. Fill jars leaving a &frac14 inch headspace. Boil jars for 15 minutes in water bath. To enhance the flavor of your salsa, veggies can be oven roasted.
