Communities Across MN Hold Rallies for the State's MMIR MMIW Day of Action and Remembrance

By KAYLA DUOOS

CASS LAKE – February 14 marked Minnesota's Day of Action and Remembrance for Missing and Murdered Indigenous Relatives.

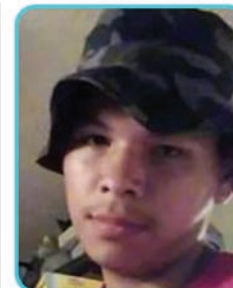

Events took place in various cities across the state from Bemidji to Fargo-Moorhead, Mahanomen, Duluth, and Minneapolis, where community members stepped out together to raise awareness for missing loved ones. Including a close to 100-person march in Bemidji, MN put on by MMIW 218 and BSU's AIRC.

LaKaylee Kingbird who spoke at the event is a Leech Lake Tribal College student and one of Nevaeh Kingbird's sisters. At age 15, Nevaeh disappeared from Bemidji in October 2021, and LaKaylee reflected on Nevaeh's absence from important milestones.

"My sister now is 18 years old. She's supposed to graduate this year from high school," LaKaylee said. "I just get very emotional around the holidays because she was a person that really enjoyed giving people gifts on certain days that were special."

Nevaeh's family let everyone know while there have been no recent leads, they will be planning another search this spring. Another case touched on during the event was that of 16-year-old Jeremy Jourdain who was last seen in 2016. Jeremy's disappearance will be featured on TV screens at 1,900 gas stations throughout the Midwest next month to help potentially gain new tips.

American Indian women and girls only make up 1% of Minnesota's population and are 8% of all murdered women and girls in Minnesota. Last year, 716 Indigenous persons went missing in Minnesota and 57% of those missing were women, according to the BCA.

In 2024, the MMIR Office provided services and resources for 28 families with missing or murdered Indigenous relatives. Staff also conducted referrals or consults on 10 additional cases. In four instances, cases were closed when the victim was found safe or was located, according to the BCA.

The public can support raising awareness around the MMIR epidemic by purchasing Minnesota's MMIR license plate. In addition to the attention these draw, they also support the Gaagige-Mikwendaagoziwag Reward Account which will consider rewards for tips that lead to a resolution of MMIR cases.

If you have any information about Nevaeh, Jeremy or their disappearances, contact the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children at 1-800-THE-LOST (1-800-843-5678) or the Bemidji Police Department at 218-333-9111.

Temporary Employment Program Notice

via LLBO TEP

This is the policy regarding loads of wood:

1. Elders receive 3 loads for the year, which will be delivered all at once in order to maintain our records. Example 7-1-2024 to 7-1-2025.
2. Spirit Fires are allowed 3 loads.
3. We will donate 1 load of wood to non-enrolled members, providing they are enrolled members of another tribe, for spirit fires.
4. We run our trucks from 8am-3:30 during work hours, exceptions are when we can get to it soon as possible.
5. Wood emergencies are for houses for heat.
6. Spirit fires and non-related wood heat for houses ARE NOT EMERGENCIES.
7. We are short staffed for winter hours due to budget cuts, the wood yard is being depleted due to machine break downs, lack of TEP workers, and vehicles breaking down.

8. We are documenting all wood orders that come in along with directives, if you request wood for someone (that exceeded their limit), a PO and email should be sent to Carrie @ TEP.

Grave Sites

- During the winter, graves must be marked, for wood to be dropped off for the grave thaw.
- It is the family's responsibility to start the fire the day before the burial by 6pm.
- All wood must be burned evenly on grave site, we will drop off 2 truckloads.
- Machines cannot dig through frozen ground. Thaw 3 feet wide by 7 feet long, so the dirt doesn't freeze overnight. It takes 3 hours or less to dig with a machine.
- If machines are not allowed to dig in certain sites, TEP must be notified. At least 3 days prior to all grave digs.
- TEP will not dig in the old cemeteries in Onigum, we don't want to accidentally dig into another grave, that's not marked.
- New sites are available in Onigum, next to the old cemeteries: catholic and episcopal.
- Some cemeteries have care takers, they must be informed. Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe enrollee's only for all sites on Leech Lake.

February 22nd Marked the Day of the 1855 Treaty Signing

By KAYLA DUOOS
Contributing Editor
MICHAEL CHOSA

The Treaty of Washington, commonly referred to as the 1855 Treaty, was signed on February 22, 1855 between the United States government and representatives of the Pillager, Lake Winnibigoshish and Mississippi bands of Ojibwe. This treaty established a reservation at Leech Lake for the Pillager & Lake Winnibigoshish bands and a reservation at Mille Lacs for the Mississippi bands. These reservations were established a full three years before Minnesota was admitted to the Union and recognized as a State in 1858. Much of the land in what would become Minnesota was acquired earlier through treaties with the Ojibwe in 1837 and 1854, and treaties with the Dakota in 1851.

The United States wanted further access to lucrative logging and mining opportunities in north-central Minnesota, the 1855 treaty fulfilled their desires. Hoping to avoid a similar situation to 1854 treaty negotiations, in which thousands of Ojibwe traveled to La Pointe to voice their concerns, the U.S. Government invited a small number of Ojibwe leaders to Washington D.C. The true purpose of their visit was kept secret from them until their arrival in the nation's Capitol. Negotiations were held for three days, from February 17 to February 20, 1855. In the end, a majority of the land in this territory was ceded to the United States with the exception of the newly established Leech Lake and Mille Lacs reservations. Treaty Rights While both the 1837 and 1854 included stipulations that the Ojibwe would retain their hunting and fishing rights in the ceded territory, the 1855 did not explicitly state this.

This led to legal battles that are still being decided in court cases between band members and various county and state agencies. At issue, are the usufructuary rights of Ojibwe band Members to hunt, fish and gather within the territories ceded in the 1855 treaty. In a highly publicized decision, the U.S. Supreme Court affirmed these rights for the Mille Lacs band in their 1999 decision, see quote below. Established in 2010, the 1855 Treaty Authority is leading the fight to have these rights legally recognized. The group includes members from the Ojibwe communities of East Lake, Leech Lake, Mille Lacs, Sandy Lake and White Earth. Twenty or so members meet monthly to work on strategies to force a legal decision on the matter and put the issue to rest once and for all. Their most effective tactic to date, is public demonstrations of off-reservation hunting, fishing and gathering rights through out the ceded territory.

These demonstrations have included setting net and harvesting wild rice. The participating tribal members hope to receive citations from the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources or county officials. The 1855 Treaty Authority then represents these Band members in state court, with the hope that a decision will be issued and elevated all the way to the United States Supreme Court in the same manner as the Mille Lacs Decision. "The Anishinaabe-Ojibwe derive these rights from Gitchi Manidoo, the creator. These rights predate contact with the Europeans" says Bedonahkwaad, Dale Greene, 1855 Treaty Authority board member and enrolled member of the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe, "The concept of land ownership was such a foreign idea to the Indians at that time, How can you own the land? Will you pick it up and bring it with you wherever you go?" He further states; "We maintained the right of occupancy, the right to exist off of our resources. The right to hunt, fish, gather and travel were unalienable to the Indians. The 1855 is important because it does not state that we are giving up any of these rights in the ceded territories. That's the bottom line. We've already won, we are just waiting for the decision." Another crucial factor in the interpretation of the 1855 treaty is what is known as the reserved rights doctrine, which holds that any rights that are not specifically addressed in a treaty are reserved to the tribe. In other words, treaties outline the specific rights that the tribes gave up, not those that they retained.

The courts have consistently interpreted treaties in this fashion, beginning with United States v. Winans (1905), in which the U.S. Supreme Court ruled that a treaty is "not a grant of rights to the Indians, but a grant of rights from them." Any right not explicitly extinguished by a treaty or a federal statute is considered to be "reserved" to the tribe.

"In 1837, the United States entered into a Treaty with several Bands of Chippewa Indians. Under terms of this Treaty, the Indians ceded land in present-day Wisconsin and Minnesota to the United States, and the United States guaranteed to the Indians certain hunting, fishing and gathering rights on the ceded land.

We must decide whether the Chippewa Indians retain these usufructuary rights today. The State of Minnesota argues that the Indians lost these rights through an Executive Order in 1850, and 1855 Treaty, and the admission of Minnesota into the Union in 1858.

After an examination of the historical record, we conclude that the Chippewa retain the usufructuary rights guaranteed to them under the 1837 Treaty."

Tribal Leaders Urge Congress to Protect Indigenous Funding as Federal Budget Deadline Nears

By KAYLA DUOOS

WASHINGTON – As the 2025 Federal government budget deadline looms, Native leaders took to Washington to ensure Tribal funding stays a bipartisan issue.

On February 25, the House Committee on Appropriations, Subcommittee on Interior, Environment, and Related Agencies, heard testimony from Minnesota Tribal leaders. Those providing testimony at the afternoon session included Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe Secretary/Treasurer Leonard Fineday, Red Lake Tribal Chairman Darrel G. Seki Sr., Mille Lacs Chief Executive Virgil Wind, and Fond du Lac Tribal Chairman Bruce Savage.

The testimony focused on the need to secure essential funding for Indian Health Service (IHS) programs, support for the Bureau of Indian Affairs' (BIA) Tiwahe Initiative, and the protection of existing Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) grants from the impacts of recent executive orders.

INDIAN HEALTH SERVICE (IHS) FUNDING AND ADVANCE APPROPRIATIONS

Fineday, representing the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe, began his testimony by advocating for the continued support of advance appropriations for IHS programs, which were successfully enacted in FY'23. Fineday emphasized the importance of advancing IHS funding to ensure the stability of Indian health services and called for the inclusion of contract support costs and 105(l) funding in the FY'26 budget. He stressed that these measures would further protect Indian health programs from disruptions caused by potential government shutdowns.

SUPPORTING THE TIWAHE INITIATIVE

Next, Fineday highlighted the critical role of the Tiwahe Initiative in fostering Tribal self-governance and addressing pressing community issues such as family reunification, suicide prevention, and job creation. He shared that the initiative has been instrumental in Leech Lake's efforts to dismantle barriers within its foster care system, allowing more Native children to remain in their communities. Fineday voiced his support for the Tiwahe Initiative's continued success, backing the request for $83.6 million in funding for FY'26.

EPA GRANTS AND THE IMPACT OF EXECUTIVE ORDERS

Fineday also raised concerns about the potential impact of recent executive orders related to diversity, equity, inclusion, and environmental justice on federal programs, particularly EPA grants. He called for clear language in the budget to exempt Tribal programs designed to fulfill treaty and trust obligations from the executive orders. Fineday specifically highlighted the EPA's Environmental and Climate Justice Block Grant, which is vital for Leech Lake's efforts to relocate a Tribal government facility from a Superfund Site. The grant, he emphasized, is essential for ensuring the health and safety of Tribal employees working in the contaminated area.

In his closing remarks, Fineday expressed his commitment to efficiency and accountability but cautioned that the one-size-fits-all approach to federal policy could have unintended consequences.

"As someone who grew up skeptical of government actions and overreach, I am strongly committed to efficiency and accountability. Given the federal obligations to Tribes, I believe that all Tribes share these concerns. However, the one-size-fits-all all approach taken so far, comes with far too many unintended consequences – while instilling fear and uncertainty in our communities, said Fineday."

"Our primary concern is that the people charged with implementing these efficiency efforts have no background in history or law about the government's treaty and trust responsibility to Indian Country. So, we are calling on this Subcommittee and others in Congress to stand with us to uphold these solemn obligations. Miigwech."

The federal budget deadline is March 14. To view Fineday's and fellow Tribal leader's testimony in full, visit llbo.link/38f42d.

MN Lt. Governor Peggy Flanagan Announces Bid for U.S. Senate, Aims to Represent Minnesota and Indian Country

By KAYLA DUOOS

ST. PAUL – On February 20, 2025, Minnesota Lieutenant Governor Peggy Flanagan made a historic announcement that she will be running for the U.S. Senate in the 2026 election, aiming to represent Minnesota in the seat soon to be vacated by Senator Tina Smith. Flanagan, who is a member of the White Earth Nation, will be the first Native American woman to hold a Senate seat in the United States if successful.

In a social media post announcing her candidacy, Flanagan reflected on her journey and her commitment to representing the people of Minnesota in Washington, D.C.

“My family relied on government assistance programs like Section 8 and free and reduced lunch, even though my mom worked full-time in healthcare,” Flanagan wrote. “This experience has informed my belief that we should wrap our arms around our neighbors in need. That’s why on the school board, in the state house, and as lieutenant governor, I’ve championed kitchen-table issues like raising the minimum wage, paid family and medical leave, and free school meals.”

Kayla Duoos | DEBAHJIMON

Lt. Gov. Peggy Flanagan speaks at the LLBO Land Restoration Celebration at the Bug O Nay Ge Shig School in Bena, 2024.

Flanagan’s campaign is set to continue her work on policies that support the economic well-being of working families, with a special focus on issues like affordable healthcare, economic justice, and expanding access to education.

Her announcement comes after Senator Tina Smith, who has served in the Senate for close to 7 years announced that she will not seek re-election. Smith, who has worked for over 20 years in the public sector, is widely recognized in Indian Country as both an ally and an advocate. Flanagan has expressed deep admiration for Smith’s work and legacy.

“United States Senator Tina Smith has paved the way for so many women like me throughout her entire career,” Flanagan stated. “She uses her voice to fiercely defend the people of Minnesota. She’s fought for small businesses, farmers, and those who’ve been overlooked so they can have a fair shot at economic success. I look forward to continuing our work together for Minnesotans.”

Before holding a Senate seat, Smith was also Minnesotas Lieutenant governor.

The Senate election will be held on November 3, 2026.

Eugene Rock

Eugene "Gene" Burton Rock, known lovingly as "Ace," passed away on December 28, 2024, at the Veterans Administration Hospital. Born on December 23, 1949, in Cass Lake, Minnesota, as the seventh of nine children, Gene spent the final years of his life living in Hastings, Minnesota, where he made a lasting impact on his community and family as the proud father of three children.

Gene was a Vietnam veteran, serving in the 82nd Airborne Division with the rank of Sergeant First Class, where he demonstrated unparalleled courage and commitment to his country. After his military service, he dedicated much of his career to the electrical trade, specializing in the installation and repair of elevators and escalators. His technical expertise and strong work ethic left a mark on many projects and colleagues.

A lifelong sports enthusiast, Gene's passion for Minnesota athletics was evident. From his early days in Cass Lake basketball to his love for college and professional sports, he found joy in the camaraderie and competition of the game. In his later years, Gene took great pleasure in attending live events, savoring every moment as a loyal fan.

Gene's athletic pursuits didn't stop at spectating. In his younger years, he was an avid golfer and racquetball player, participating in numerous community events and tournaments. His competitive spirit and love for the game earned him friends and memories that lasted a lifetime.

Beyond sports, Gene found excitement and relaxation in gaming, appreciating the thrill and chance of the experience.

A man of deep and diverse beliefs, Gene embraced a blend of cultural identities and faiths, including traditional Indigenous teachings, Christianity, and the Bahá'í Faith. His spirituality reflected his open heart and optimistic outlook on life.

Gene's unwavering optimism was a hallmark of his character. He believed in the power of redemption, the promise of better tomorrows, and the importance of faith. His hopeful perspective inspired all who knew him to strive for a brighter future.

Gene was preceded in death by his parents, Thomas Oliver "Buster" and Cecilia Mary Rock, as well as his siblings, Rowena "Pat," Thomas "Tom," Juanita "Retz," and Wilbur "Pud," and his cherished pet, Chief.

Mike Olson, 62, died peacefully in his sleep on January 17, 2024, at his home in Onigum, Minnesota. He is survived by his wife Paula (Haugen) Olson, his daughter Kristen Velasco, grandchildren Emily, Alejandra, Madison, MacKenzie, and his son Freedom Olson; stepchildren Josh Strobel (Jeannie), Jordan Strobel (Tara) and Jonathan Strobel, grandchildren Lance and Vera. His mother Gloria (Aamodt) Adkisson, sisters Sharon Fox (Donald), Patrice Welsh, nieces Ursula, Nicole, nephews Daniel and Caske. Preceded in death his father Russell Olson.

Mike was a beacon of light and positivity, always ready to lend a helping hand to anyone in need. A devoted and loving husband, he cherished his role as a father to his children and grandchildren. He held his friends, especially his childhood friends-close to his heart, staying connected with them throughout the years and sharing countless great stories from their adventures together. Mike had a deep love for classic rock and roll, proudly playing his cherished records on his beloved stereo. A nostalgic soul, he found joy in the memories and moments that shaped his life.

Mike faced many challenges throughout his life, but he overcame them with resilience and transformed them into positivity. At the age of 40, he made the inspiring decision to return to school, earning his BA in social work. This achievement allowed him to make a meaningful difference in the lives of many troubled youth over the years. Despite his serious commitment to helping others, Mike always maintained his fun and playful spirit. With his sharp wit and knack for being a jokester, he brought smiles and laughter to everyone around him.

Mike, who was adopted as a baby, found his biological family 20 years ago. He was very happy to find his family and know his history. He became a proud member of the Leech Lake Band of Ojibwe at that time. In 2017, he moved to Onigum and made it his home, purchasing a cabin on the shores of Leech Lake. As an integral part of this community, Mike embodied a spirit of generosity and connection. Whether he was sharing venison or fish with elders or offering a helping hand wherever it was needed, Mike's presence made a difference. Onigum was more than just a place to him-it was home, a blessing he cherished, and a community he was honored to be part of.

Services will be held on Saturday, January 25, 2025, at the Onigum Community Center
